No Final Decision On Building Garage, Says Mayor Reed

A contingent of critics of the proposed garage complex, whose spokesperson last Tuesday night was John Street resident Dorothy Koehn, listened while Ms. Koehn asked Borough Council to hold a public meeting on the complex, to be led by Alan Hegedus, a former Republican candidate for Council.

She urged Council to refrain from any commitments until the hearing is held and "there is a show of hands on the project," and asked that there be an open discussion on the plan before proceeding with its adoption.

Ms.. Koehn and others supporting her request were assured by Mayor Marvin Reed and several members of Council that there had not been a final decision to move torward with the complex, even though a developer has been selected.

The only decision that is absolutely final is the construction of a new library at the library's former site at Witherspoon and Wiggins streets, said Mayor Reed, who added that this decision was made by Princeton Township as well. Councilman David Goldtarb acknowledged, however, that the Borough is moving ahead on the assumption that the project will be built.

The goal is for the new library to be open at the end ot next year, and the Borough has expressed a desire to have the garage finished by that time.

Mr. Goldfarb said that Council will make a decision on whether to go ahead with the final project when it completes and presents the final developer's agreement to the public. "There will be an opportunity for the project to be cancelled," he added.

He passed along some political advice to the complex's critics, saying that a small number of people, if they organize their protest effectively, can accomplish an enormous amount. As an example, he pointed to the proponents of acquiring open space, whose efforts eventually led to the adoption of open space taxes in both the Borough and Township.

Leaky Sewer System Is Costly to Princeton

The recent rains are good news for New Jersey's ongoing drought situation, but they will only mean higher costs for Princeton's sewer system. Groundwater seeping into the sewers during heavy rains is costing the Borough and Township together as much as $1 million per year, according to a recent study by the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority (SBRSA).

Don Mayer-Brown, manager of the Princeton Sewer Operating Committee (SOC), says more than 50 percent of Princeton's 125-mile long sewer system needs to be replaced or rehabilitated to solve the inflow and infiltration problem which has plagued the system for more than two decades.

"We have a problem with our sewer system ... It leaks," says David Goldfarb, the Borough liaison to the SOC.

"If we get two inches of rain, wo might see a doubling of the flow," said Mr. Mayer-Brown, adding that during Hurricane Floyd in 1999, the system carried six to seven times its usual flow.

Ordinary maintenance and spot repairs have eliminated some of the leaks, such as inflow through leaky manhole covers, but the majority of the water seems to be entering through cracks in buried pipes, reports the SOC.

"It has been an ongoing procoss of studies and repairs and further studies and further repairs," said Mr. Mayer-Brown.

The Sewer Opereting Committee now wants to make leaky-sewer repairs e priority in order to reduce ennual expenses for effluent treatment and even out Princeton's annual flow to the River Road treatment facility by 2015. In that year, the contract governing debt repayment and operating expenses between the SBRSA and the seven municipalities it serves — Princeton Borough, Princeton Township, Hopewell Borough, Hopewell Township, Pennington Borough, West Windsor Township, and South Brunswick Township — will expire. Under the current agreement, the final apportioning of debt on the bonds used lo construct the River Road fecility will depend upon one-

Permits Are Denied For Construction of 97 Condominiums

Princeton Borough has denied Palmer Square Management's application for building and zoning permits that would have allowed construction to move forward on a long-delayed 97-unit residential complex on Paul Robeson Place/ Hulfish North.

According to Borough Engineer Carl Peters, protection from changes in zoning attached to the Planning Board's final approval in 1990 of the Paul Robeson Place/ Hulfish North project has expired. He said this make Palmer Square subject to a 1994 Borough ordinance requiring developers fo set aside 20 percent of new residential units for affordable housing.

Palmer Square Management Vice President David Newton said the building and zoning permits were rejected for "what we believe are politicat and wrong reasons."

Borough and Palmer Square officials have been meeting for the past few years to try to iron out their differences about the provision of affordable housing by the developer. The 1994 Borough zoning ordinance, as written, would require

New Medical Center President Looking To Meet Health Care Needs of Princeton

Despite his ready smile and easy manner, Barry S. Rabner, the new president and CEO of the Medical Center at Princeton, views his position and his obligation to the community with great earnestness.

"The difference between this work and that of other fields is the importance of what we do," said Mr. Rabner. "This is a very serious job and a very serious responsibility."

Mr. Rabner indicated that the duty of meeting Princeton's health care needs will require extensive planning. "One of our most significant needs is to develop a strategic plan for the entire organization," he said. "We need to define how we will serve the Princeton community over the next 5 to 10 years."

Though Mr. Rabner identified some specific needs of the hospital, such as the expansion of its Emergency Department, many of the particular aspects of its plan remain uncertain.

TOPICS Of the Town

"We want to understand what the health care needs of the community are and what resources we need in place to meet those needs in an outstanding way," he said. "We need to provide great care at a cost-efficient rate, or there isn't a future for the hospital.

"When somebody who lives in the area we serve has a health care need, I want them to think, 'I hope they provide this service at the Medical Center,'" added Mr. Rabner. "We want to be the best in the area that they can get."

Current Services

Facilities at the hospital that currently meet those needs include a clinic that provided primary and specialty care to more than 13,000 patients last year and an Emergency Department that had 37,000 visits. The hospital's services also include interpreters, social workers, and a chaplaincy program.

An independent institution that depends mainly upon reimbursement from private insurance companies and the federal government through programs such as Medicare and Medicaid, the Medical Center at Princeton is also a teaching affiliate of the Robert Wood Johnson Medical School of New Brunswick and a member of the Cancer Institute of New Jersey.

Yet Mr. Rabner acknowledged that the community's health care concerns begin with the availability of excellent care. "The quality of the medical staff, the sophistication of the technology, the competency of the staff members: those things are the most important things to patients," said Mr. Rabner.

"What is unique about the Medical Center at Princeton in my experience is the caliber of the medical staff in terms of its academic preparation, residency training, fellowships, and other credentials," he stated. Noting that the hospital's physicians contributed more than $5 million in free care last year, Mr. Rabner added, "We have an extraordinary staff compared to any hospital in the state."

Mr. Rabner comes to Princeton with 20 years of experience in health care administration. Most recently, he served as acting president and CEO of Main Line Health, a not-for-profit corporation in suburban Philadelphia.

Following a year of graduate study at L'Universite de Paris du Sorbonne, Mr. Rabner attended Rutgers University, where he earned a Master of Public Administration. Throughout his career, he has held senior positions with the Jefferson Health System, Bryn Mawr Rehabilitation Hospital, and MossRehab Hospital.

Mr. Rabner's interest in public health developed from an early age. While in high school and college, he worked as an orderly and a nurse's aide in an acute care facility and an emergency department.

"I learned more about hospitals and health care in those years than in all my academic work," said Mr. Rabner. "I learned how patients perceive hospitals and those who provide care for them, and I realized how dependent residents are upon the people who help them.

"Those things that I learned are always on my mind," he added. "I can't help but think about them, and, hopefully, they will affect all our decisions."

Mr. Rabner hopes that the Medical Center's planning phase will be completed by January 2003.

"Good planning is a real challenge, particularly in health care, because the future is unknowable and because the changes in medical technology are so dramatic and so rapid," said Mr. Rabner. "We will meet with people in the community and engage elected officials, civic leaders, Princeton University representatives, and leaders of the larger organizations in town.

Barry S. Rabner

"I'm optimistic that we'll have a great plan," he stated. "And overall, I think the community will be supportive of it."

The degree to which those plans will include expansion of the hospital's facilities is, at this point, unclear.

"The hospital is on a relatively small parcel of land in the middle of a well-established town," stated Mr. Rabner. "That must be considered in our planning process.

"We have to determine what activity must occur on this campus, and what can be done elsewhere," said Mr. Rabner, whose off-site facilities include Princeton House, the Merwick Subacute Care and Rehabilitation Unit, and the Monroe Unit.

One on-going question in the hospital's potential development is the use of its properties along Harris Road.

At issue in this long dispute is whether the professional use of buildings in a residential zone is "inherently beneficial" to the community, which would make the buildings exempt from certain local zoning restrictions. The houses on Harris Road in question are being used by the hospital for a variety of operations including accounting, planning, fund-raising, public relations, and purchasing.

An Appellate Court ruling recently handed down by a three-judge panel headed by Judge Philip Carchman stated that the hospital must demonstrate how the Harris Road offices advance the core function of the institution.

In April, the Princeton Township Zoning Board of Adjustment stated that it will retain jurisdiction over the Medical Center's use of its Harris Road properties and that the hospital should again submit materials to request zoning variances.

"This is a question of how to balance the community's needs for health care with the desire to make this a great place to live," said Mr. Rabner, whose staff has until October to submit the application to the Zoning Board.

"We're looking at every plan, every clinical service, every community need, and we're going to find out what's best and what's right," said Mr. Rabner. "We're a part of this community."

Mr. Rabner will himself be a resident of Princeton shortly. Currently residing with his wife, Amy, and his family in Radnor, Pa., he will be relocating to the Princeton area soon.

"It's only appropriate for the executive of an organization to be a part of the community, as a matter of principle," explained Mr. Rabner.

The Princeton community has, in Mr. Rabner's perception, an asset in its collective dedication to ensuring the quality of life. "People here are heavily engaged in keeping this a great place to live," stated Mr. Rabner. "There is a strong civic focus here, and we intend to be a responsible neighbor within this community."

Library will Launch Children, Teen, Adult Summer Reading Clubs

The Princeton Public Library will host three age-specific reading clubs and 94 events this summer.

"If you love reading, we have a club for you," said Leslie Burger, library director. "And if you don't want to join our clubs, we still have plenty to do, from music to magic and from films to games."

Registration for the reading clubs begins Wednesday, June 19. Each club will feature a system under which participants can earn prizes donated by Princeton merchants for reading or listening to audiobooks.

"Around the Library in 60 Days" is the theme for the reading club for pre-schoolers to fifth graders. Children will be encouraged to read or listen to books from several genres. For each different type of book read, participants will earn a sticker. When they earn 10 stickers, children will be eligible for a Star Reader Patch.

Children can also earn prizes for the number of hours they spend reading. When they reach the 20-hour mark, the readers will be rewarded with an ice cream sundae from Thomas Sweet Ice Cream. When registering for the club, children will receive a reading log and lists of staff recommendations.

Children's programming highlights include appearances by singer-songwriter Joel Frankel on Wednesday, June 26 at 7, a performance of The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe by Youth Stages on Wednesday, July 10 at 7, and an exploration of Caribbean culture titled "Out of Africa, Into the Caribbean" on Friday, July 12 at 7:30.

They will further include "Fish Tales" with Sari Ruskin on Monday, July 15 at 4, a magic show featuring members of the local chapter of the Society of American Magicians on Monday, July 29 at 7:30, a joint appearance by children's book author Brian Lies and his mother, poet Betty Lies, on August 5 at 7, and the Summer Reading Club Show & Tell and family picnic on August 19 at 4.

In addition, there will be a full schedule of story hours featuring the new Alice in Wonderland Kids and a series of more than a dozen events under the title "Fun and Games @ Your Library."

Young people entering grades six through 12 can also earn ice cream sundaes by reading 25 hours as part of Teen Read 2002. Club members who write reviews of books they read, or of films they watch in the "How to Read a Film" series, earn chances to win in weekly drawings. Teen Read participants will receive a reading log, a variety of booklists and information on library programs and events.

Program highlights for teens include the "How to Read a Film" series June 25, July 9 and 23 and August 6 and 20 at 7, and "Talking Books," a three-session series featuring book talks by librarians Bonnie Kunzel and Susan Roth on June 24, July 17 and August 7 at 7.

Members of the Book Lovers, the summer reading club for adults, will also write reviews to qualify for prize drawings. The club's reviews will be posted on the library's web page at www.princetonlibrary.org/ptonreads. Upon registering at the information desk or by e-mail at books@princetonlibrary.org, club members will receive a Book Lovers Kit with review forms, a library pencil, a Hershey's Kiss and a list of suggested reading and listening material.

The schedule of events for adults is highlighted by the Summer Celebration of Writers, which will begin July 12 with an appearance by romance writer Shirley Hailstock. It will continue July 30 at 7:30 with mystery writer Anthony Bruno and will end August 13 at 7:30 when science fiction-fantasy author David Lubar will speak.

Other adult events will be book discussion groups, including the new Science Fiction and Fantasy Book Discussion Group and the Unquiet Fridays series, which will feature the rock band, The Fat Daddies, on June 28 at 7, A Midsummer Night's Dream on July 26 at 7:30, and Chico Mendoza and the Latin Jazz Ensemble on August 23 at 7:30.

The library's two technology series, Tuesday Technology Talks and Data Bytes, will continue in June and July. Book a Trip, a service under which librarians gather materials for vacationers, will be available throughout the summer.

All of the library's 94 programs for summer are detailed in @ your library, the newsletter and program guide available throughout the library.

Historical Society To Host Excursion To Hudson Valley

The Historical Society of Princeton (HSP) will host a trip, entitled "Living with Nature and Art in the Hudson Valley," on Wednesday, July 10. The excursion to the Hudson River Valley will include visits to Manitoga, the estate of designer Russel Wright, and the Storm King Art Center, which is currently displaying a special exhibit of sculptures by Calder.

Russel Wright attended Princeton University in 1921-22 to prepare for a career in law, but he spent his time designing sets for the Triangle Club and soon migrated to the theaters in New York City. In the 1930s, Mr. Wright became famous as an industrial designer of home furnishings as his designs reflected his love of natural, organic shapes.

In 1942, Mr. Wright bought land in Garrison, N.Y. and spent 30 years transforming the land and designing a house. He named his estate Manitoga, which means "Place of the Great Spirit" in Algonquin.

The house, called Dragon Rock, was designed to be part of the natural landscape. Set at the end of a winding forest path behind a waterfall, the house blends into the natural setting with its wooden beams, huge glass doors, simple shape, and flat roof that is partially overgrown with grass. The interior of the house includes natural materials, stone steps, boulders, epoxy with pressed leaves, and sparse furniture. After viewing a video, the group will be given a guided tour of the house and part of the grounds.

A picnic lunch will be served at the Storm King Art Center. After lunch, there will be a 45-minute guided tour. The park has 120 permanent outdoor sculpiures that are artfully placed throughout the spacious hills and meadows of the outdoor museum. A new feature this year is a tram that takes visitors through the grounds. Also on view is an exhibit, "Grand Intuitions: Calder Monumental Sculptures," which features 19 of Alexander Calder's works.

Only 40 people are allowed to tour the Wright House. However, the bus has room for 49 people. If individuals wish to come to tour the Storm King Art Center, they may do so. While the group visits the Wright House, they can tour the Wright House grounds and walk its trails.

The cost for both the Manitoga and Storm King Art Center portions of the excursion is $70 per person for members of HSP and $80 per person for non-members. For those attending only the Storm King Art Center, the cost is $60 per person for members and $70 for non-members. The fee includes admissions, transportation, lunch, and a $10 non-refundable, tax-deductible contribution to HSP.

Reservations will be accommodated on a first come, first served basis. Please specify preference. Send reservations to Historical Society of Princeton, 158 Nassau Street, Princeton, 08542.

The cancellation deadline is July 1, after which no refunds can be given unless a replacement is found. For more information, call the Historical Society at 921-6748.

Township Police Department Celebrates 75th Anniversary

Township Police Dept. Celebrates 75 Years of Service

Members of the Township Police Department celebrated a birthday on June 6, but not for one of their own. They were celebrating the 75th anniversary of the department itself.

On June 6, 1927, the Township Police Department was officially formed. In recognition of the anniversary, circular decals were placed on department vehicles, while commemorative arm badges and anniversary badges are being worn by officers. All of these items will be displayed and/or worn until December 31, 2003. The badges were purchased by the officers.

"We went back into the town records, because we thought the anniversary date was actually 1928," said Lt. Mark Emann, a 24-year veteran of the force. "We went to the library, looked at an old newspaper, and found out the date was 1927.

94 Sworn Officers

"In 75 years we've had 94 sworn officers. Through oral history and records, we assigned officers badge numbers."

The circular decals show the years of the police department's existence. The inner circle shows the current arm patch as well as a reproduction of a patch from the 1930's. The two patches are set against a waving American flag.

The commemorative arm patches show a blend of the current design and ones from the 1930's. The older patch was fastened to both collar tips of the uniform shirt with the letters, "PTP" in the corners of the triangular patch. It had a dark gray background and was approximately 2½ inches in size.

The new patch shows a large yellow "75" with the years "1927" and "2002" flanking it. The commemorative arm patches will be sewn on the right sleeve of the uniform shirt, and will be displayed simultaneously with the current one. The current patch will not be replaced.

The anniversary badge is two-tone, and is similar to the older style worn by NYPD patrolmen. It has a silver base with gold colored banners and a full color State of New Jersey enamel seal. The upper portion of the badge reads, "Princeton Twp.," followed by the seal in the center of the badge. Just below the seal, the word "Police" appears in the next portion. The last two portions state, "75th Anniversary", and "1927-2002."

There are no rank designations on the commemorative badges. Each one is engraved on the back with the officer's name and badge number. There is no commemorative hat badge. The current ID badge and case will be used."

Prior to 1927, full and part time constables, and part time special officers were used to patrol the area. After the department was formed, the current police department building on Witherspoon Street was constructed. Calls for officers came in through the Borough. A red light was placed on top of the Township building, and was lit up whenever Township officers were needed. They would then travel to the Borough and find out what the call was.

Technology Changes

"Technology is one of the biggest things we've seen change over the years, with computers being placed in our cars, and the demands placed on us by the state and federal government," said Lt. Robert Buchanan, a 21-year veteran of the Township Police Department. "We have to keep up with the changes and mandates. Our officers can't go out on the road and not know procedures."

Lt. Buchanan also talked about the increase in volume around the Township, due to the growth of the town itself.

"Our community involvement has grown over the years," he commented. "We're a lot more in tune to community relations. This is a tremendous department, and we are all very proud of it. It's also a great town to work in."

"The big picture is that it's a nice community," said Lt. Emann. "We just want people to know we've been here 75 years and we're proud of it."

THURSDAY MORNING BLAZE: A fire on Thursday morning damaged this building on the Princeton Charter School campus. The building was being renovated, and was to be used by students at the school this fall.

Fire Damages Building Intended for Students At Charter School

A structure fire on the campus of the Princeton Charter School on Ewing Street last week damaged a building that was to be used by students there this fall. No one was in the building at the time of the blaze.

The fire started in the early morning hours on June 12, and was spotted by a passing motorist at 6:10 a.m. Township officers arrived on the scene first. They spotted heavy smoke coming from the building, and fire extending out the rear windows. The Princeton and Kingston Fire Departments, and the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad arrived shortly afterwards.

The structure suffered heavy damage to the rear and to the roof, which partially collapsed. Portions of Ewing and North Harrison Street were closed for nearly two hours, and were reopened at 7:57 a.m.

"Emergency vehicles onsite made bus and parent drop-off difficult and confusing, and disrupted traffic on Ewing Street" said Princeton Charter School representative Marybeth Roach in a written statement.

Ms. Roach said despite the confusion, the school opened on time, and there was no impact on its operations.

The biggest impact from the fire will be on the placement of Princeton Charter School students in grades 1-4 this fall.

"We are assessing the damage," said Ms. Roach, "but it is already clear that it will delay our planned renovation of the building involved. Contingency plans are already underway to ensure that the school's expansion in the fall continues as planned."

One of those contingency plans, according to Charles Marsee, Head of the Princeton Charter School, is to use trailers for the students this fall. Mr. Marsee said it is not clear as of yet when the damaged structure will be repaired and ready for use.

"The school is grateful to local fire, police and emergency medical authorities that responded promptly and effectively," said Ms. Roach, "preventing what might have been a much worse situation.

"Even as the situation was unfolding, parents volunteered their time and efforts, the faculty worked to ensure a safe and productive day for our students, the Administration and Board began to work toward adjusted plans, and crews arrived to erect the tent for Friday's graduation ceremony."

The fire, according to Township police, was caused by an electrical problem. Fire Marshal Ted Cashel, Mercer County Prosecutors Officer Det. Gary Wasko, and Sgt. Robert K. Toole investigated the incident.

Two From Philadelphia Face Prostitution Charges

A 23-year-old woman was arrested on June 16 and charged with prostitution, while a 30-year-old companion was charged with promoting prostitution. Both are from Philadelphia.

At 11:48 a.m., Township police received a report of a suspicious 1988 Mercury vehicle parked on Leigh Avenue. Officer Ben Gering arrived on the scene and found 30-year-old Daniel McDermott sitting in the vehicle. The man told police he was waiting for his cousin. 23-year-old Heather Jurich then came out of a residence on Leigh Avenue and returned to the Mercury where McDermott was sitting.

Township police said that after speaking with Jurich, and the Leigh Avenue residence, it was learned that McDermott brought the woman to Princeton to have sex for money. Jurich was arrested for prostitution, and a subsequent search of her possessions yielded five bags of heroin, 3" rocks of crack cocaine, a hypodermic syringe, and a crack pipe.

Jurich was charged with prostitution, possession of a controlled dangerous substance, possession of a controlled dangerous substance in a school zone, possession of a hypodermic syringe, and possession of drug paraphernalia. She was detained on $25,000 bail.

McDermott was arrested and charged with promoting prostitution, as well as motor vehicle charges. He was released on his own recognizance. The Leigh Avenue resident was not charged.

Bicycle Helmet Program to Begin In the Township

Children around Princeton will be safer this summer, thanks to the hard work and generosity of the fifth grade class at Community Park Elementary School, the Princeton Shopping Center Merchants, and the Township police. A cooperative bicycle helmet program is being unveiled just in time for the beginning of summer. The program will target juvenile bike riders who do not have bicycle helmets, and also reward those who wear their bike helmets.

The bicycle helmet program will also involve the distribution of ice cream cone certificates.

Pizza Star, in the Princeton Shopping Center, will donate 100 certificates for free cones. Township Police officers will distribute these coupons when they observe children wearing helmets while rollerskating, rollerblading, riding their bicycles, or riding their scooters.

Students from the fifth grade at Community Park School conducted a bake sale and raised $200 as part of their community service project. Class representatives Natalia Rodriguez and Elizabeth Annis presented their Adopt-a-Cop officer, Ptl. Geoff Maurer, with a symbolic helmet during their "Moving On" graduation ceremony on Tuesday morning.

The fifth grade class partnered with Ptl. Maurer and came up with an idea to buy bicycle helmets to be distributed. The Princeton Shopping Center Merchants also contributed money, which enabled the program to purchase approximately 60 Snell approved helmets.

The Township Police Department will be issuing written warnings as a "first offense" to juveniles who are spotted riding their bicycles without a helmet. A second offense will result in a summons being issued to the parents/guardian, and a possible fine. Parents who cannot afford a bicycle helmet will be given a certificate for a free helmet. The certificate is redeemable at Township police headquarters.

Certificates and written warnings are written in both English and Spanish.

The law in New Jersey requires children under 14 to wear a helmet while riding bicycles, rollerblading, rollerskating, or skateboarding. A first offense conviction will result in a $25 fine, with subsequent offenses carrying a maximum fine of $100 per occurrence. Children are encouraged to wear helmets while riding scooters, although it is not a law. Anyone with questions about the program or the law is asked to contact Ptl. Maurer at 921-2100.

Mercer College Confers More than 800 Degrees

More than 800 graduates of Mercer County Community College (MCCC) recently received their associate degrees in the college's 2002 commencement exercises.

During his commencement address, MCCC president Dr. Robert Rose quoted former Harvard president Charles Elliott: "A good past is positively dangerous if it makes us content with the present and so unprepared for the future." Dr. Rose spoke about "the dash," the line on each tombstone that separates the birth date from the death date. "It's up to each of us," he said, "to decide what we will do with the dash."

At the Honors Convocation preceding the main ceremonies, the college presented 142 awards and scholarships to distinguished students in disciplines including architecture, business, graphic design, funeral service, aviation, ornamental horticulture, and computer service. Many of the honorees plan to continue their education at four-year colleges and universities.

Mercer County Community College offers 63 associate degree programs designed for transfer or entry into a career field as well as 33 credit certificate programs.

In addition to the West Windsor Campus of MCCC, the downtown Trenton James Kerney Campus and the Virtual Campus offer credit and noncredit courses.

NAMI Mercer Announces Princetonian as Director

Rachel Howard of Princeton has been appointed executive director of the Mercer County affiliate of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI).

"This job is exactly what I want to do; it has all the elements of what work should be about," said Ms. Howard, NAMI's first paid executive director. "NAMI's work is vitally important. Its members are passionate and committed, and there's a mixture of advocacy, fund-raising, and program development that integrates all the things I have found most interesting in what I have done in the past.

"I am very impressed with everyone I have met and I already feel very much welcomed," added Ms. Howard, who will assume full time duties on Monday, July 1.

Since 1997, Ms. Howard served as director of business development, child and adolescent services, for the Sheppard Pratt Health System in Baltimore, a large regional behavioral health care provider with a primary emphasis upon child and adolescent services. From 1989 through 1997, she was department director at Jewish Family Services, also in Baltimore.

Ms. Howard earned both a Master of Arts degree in Social Service Administration and a Bachelor's degree in Anthropology from the University of Chicago. She has been a Licensed Certified Social Worker (LCSW) in the state of Maryland since 1993.

Ms. Howard, her husband Martin, who serves as the chief information officer at Ingenix, and their daughter Hannah have lived in Princeton since June 2001.

St. Paul Students Raise Funds in Math-A-Thon

Students of St. Paul School recently took part in the 22nd annual Math-A-Thon, sponsored by St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

The Math-A-Thon is an educationally based fund-raising program in which students obtain sponsors for the number of mathematical problems completed in special workbooks. The program was open to students in grades 5 through 8 at St. Paul School, and it raised approximately $1,200 in support of St. Jude's research, patient care, and education.

"We are very proud of our students for working so hard on the Math-A-Thon," said Iris Maddalon, school coordinator. "With their help, St. Jude Hospital will be able to create new treatments that may one day lead to a cure for many forms of cancer that will benefit the children of our state, our country, and around the world."

St. Paul School, located at 218 Nassau Street, is a Catholic elementary school providing quality education for children in kindergarten through eighth grade. St. Paul School was founded in 1880 by the Sisters of Mercy and has a current enrollment of more than 420 students.

Hungarian Summer Potatoes

by Sammi Tessler

"This recipe was passed down from my Hungarian great-grandmother It's good, simple (as simple as it gets) peasant food This dish is nice to serve as a summer picnic dinner, especially if you make it with freshly harvested potatoes from your garden! Because it's such a humble dish, I recommend serving it in really pretty dishes and garnish it with fresh herbs or something brightly colored "

Serves 4

4 large potatoes (totalling 2½ to 3 pounds)
1 large onion
(preferably a sweet onion like Vidalia)
1 pint sour cream
salt and pepper to taste

1. Peel potatoes and cut into medium-sized cubes. Boil until tender; drain.

2. While potatoes are cooking, finely chop the onion.

3. Serve the potatoes, onions and sour cream in separate bowls. Each person can toss the potatoes, onion and sour cream together for themselves and season with salt and pepper to taste.

PHS Jazz Instructor Honored for Teaching

Anthony Biancosino

Dr. Anthony Biancosino, the director of the Princeton High School (PHS) Studio Band, was recently honored by Downbeat Magazine for his achievements in jazz education.

The PHS Studio Band has the distinction of being honored by a resolution of the State Assembly of New Jersey for its "unparalleled history of musical excellence, which has distinguished them as a group of musicians of the highest caliber."

In addition, the studio band is the first and only high school band to play for an Inaugural Ball, that of Ronald Reagan. The band so impressed the dignitaries present, including then Vice President George Bush, that they were invited back to play for the next Inaugural Ball, that of President Bush.

Dr. Biancosino holds a B.M. in Music from Temple University and a M.A. in Music from the College of New Jersey. Additionally, Dr. Biancosino did graduate work at Indiana University and has a DFA in Conducting from the University of Calgary in Canada.

The PHS Studio Band has played with jazz legends such as Dizzy Gillespie, Frank Foster, and Amie Lawrence, as well as John Popper of Blues Traveler who, like all the original members of the band, is an alumnus of PHS and the PHS Studio Band.

Furthermore, the PHS Studio Band has given numerous hours of performance for organizations and events such as the American Red Cross, the International Crop Walk, St. Christopher's Hospital and Children's Heart Hospital in Philadelphia, International Rotarians, Boys' Town of Italy, the New Jersey Environmental Federation, the American Boychoir School, and the 50th anniversary reunion of the first United States Army battalion to invade Normandy.

The studio band also holds numerous first place awards from competitions throughout the state. It has also taken first place four times at the Berklee Jazz Festival in Boston, and it has won Gold Medals three times in international competition. In addition, the studio band won first place in the America's Best High School Jazz Band competition in 2000.

Dr. Biancosino's program at PHS includes five jazz ensembles and encompasses nearly one third of the student population.

"When I entered teaching, I found a huge void about American music, especially jazz," Dr. Biancosino said in an article within Downbeat Magazine. "Many schools just pay lip service; they'll have the ensembles that do jazz in the evenings, but they're not part of the curriculum."

He added, "I'm a believer if my students can be proficient in the area of jazz and improvisation, they can do anything."

Leaking Sewers

year flow levels, meaning the amount of rainfall in that year will significantly affect the portion of debt that Princeton will have to pay.

The SBRSA study, which compared data from a dry year, 2001, with that from a wet year, 1998, found that groundwater entering the sewer system increased the flow of effluent from the Township and Borough by 20 percent. Treating the additional groundwater cost Princeton $500,000 and increased its debt responsibility by $600,000 for the year.

The SOC estimates that 1-1.5 million gallons of groundwater infiltrates Princeton's sewers each day. A study sponsored by the SOC reported in March that removing all the groundwater leaks in the system would cost between $10 and $30 million dollars, but projected that the SOC would save $5 to $20 million more than that due to a reduction in debt responsibility.

By next spring, the SOC will develop an overall plan prioritizing repairs based on infiltration and inflow. However, it will continue to monitor the value of specific repairs throughout the project. "We will focus on projects where the payback is greatest," said Mr. Goldfarb. He noted that even in cases where the cost of repairs and the resulting debt reduction are equal, the repairs would produce a net gain, as a reduction in inflow would reduce future annual costs.

The SOC has already made $600,000 of its annual budget available for infiltration and inflow repairs. Mr. Goldfarb said that amount will probably increase as the SOC begins to see financial benefits from the repairs. Additional funds will come from the Sewer Trust Fund, a pool of money collected from one-time payments by property owners or developers who add flow to the system, and sewer service charges, paid annually by every house and building in the Township and Borough.

A $12 million sewer repair project in the late 1980s utilized low-interest State loans from the New Jersey Wastewater Treatment Trust for some of its funding, but the SOC has not discussed the possibility of seeking State funds for this project.

Mr. Mayer-Brown said that priorities for rehabilitation will include the oldest portion of the sewer system, extending north and west from Hodge Road, and the area encompassing Snowden Lane, Braeburn Drive, Monroe Road, Clearview Avenue, and Dorann Avenue, an area where the Sewer Operating Committee is already at work on repairs.

Vitrified clay pipes from the 1930s and asbestos cement pipes from the 1950s are the most likely culprits for leakage, but newer pipes made from polyvinylchloride could have problems as well, he said.

In addition to groundwater inflow and infiltration, there is also the possibility of reverse seepage in areas where the groundwater pressure is low. Mr. Mayer-Brown said there had been some evidence of sewage leakage but no cases of significantly contaminated groundwater.

The SOC will utilize flowmeters and in-pipe cameras to pinpoint leaks, and it may be possible to repair some pipes by inserting resin-filled balloons. "If we can avoid digging, we will," said Mr. Goldfarb. He adds that the SOC will try to coordinate digging with street repairs where possible.

In addition to disruption, some homeowners will face costly repairs to laterals, the smaller pipes that connect individual buildings to sewer mains. The SOC has long suspected that leaky laterals are a large contributor to groundwater infiltration. Property owners will be required to repair any damaged laterals the project identifies but may be able to receive financial assistance or utilize municipal contractors at discounted rates.

The accelerated pace of repairs is slated to begin next spring, though limited infiltration and inflow repairs are already underway. The SOC has had preliminary discussions with an engineer with previous Princeton municipal experience and expects to announce shortly his appointment as project engineer.

Design Charrette Set For Borough Garage

A design charrette for the proposed downtown parking garage will take place Wednesday, June 26, from 6 to 10 p.m. in Borough Hall.

Members of the Nassau HKT design team will be on hand to discuss various design techniques with members of the Planning Board, Zoning Board, Borough Traffic and Transportation Committee, Historic Preservation Commission, Site Plan Review Board, Shade Tree Commission, Construction Board of Appeals, Affordable Housing Board, and members of the steering committee for Princeton Future.

The public is invited to attend.

PHS Marine Explorers Adopt Artificial Reefs

The Marine Explorers Club at Princeton High School recently raised money to adopt three artificial reef habitats as part of their service-learning efforts.

The 1,600 pound concrete structures create a space in which marine life can thrive. Not only will this project help enhance New Jersey marine life, but it will also provide a better place for divers and visitors of the New Jersey coastline to explore.

Casey La Marche, the student leader of the club, has been a regular visitor to the Jersey Shore during her summer vacations. "Hopefully, the reefballs will allow for a safer habitat for the amazing creatures that live there," she said.

Man Who Drove Friend to Hospital Was Charged by Police

A 41-year-old man who drove a friend to the Princeton Medical Center after he overdosed, was himself charged with DWI and with being under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance (heroin).

Borough Ptl. Jon Bucchere was dispatched to the rear of the Princeton Medical Center on June 11 when it was reported that a vehicle parked there was involved in a motor vehicle accident. Upon arrival of patrols, it was learned that the accused, Thomas J. Devlin of Elm Street, had driven a friend to the PMC after he overdosed in Hopewell Township.

Devlin struck a vehicle on Franklin Avenue en route to the PMC. His friend was revived by emergency room personnel. Subsequent investigation at the scene revealed that Devlin had driven his car while under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance. He was arrested and charged at the hospital. No other information was available concerning the friend who overdosed.

A 21-year-old Lawrenceville man was arrested at 11:50 a.m. on June 14 and charged with credit card theft, receiving stolen property, theft by deception, and forgery.

Police said Ari B. Gersten was found to be in possession of an ATM card that was inadvertently left in an ATM machine at the PNC Bank on Nassau Street. Gersten apparently used the card to withdraw $500 cash from a 39-year-old Skillman woman's account. Gersten was processed and released with summonses.

A 44-year-old Poe Road resident was arrested at 5:32 p.m. on June 16 and charged with shoplifting and defiant trespass. Police said Lihua Gao stole $37.75 worth of candy from the CVS Pharmacy on Nassau Street. Police also said she had been caught shoplifting before, and was warned to stay out of the store. Gao was processed and released with a summons.

A 39-year-old Trenton man was arrested and charged with shoplifting from the Princeton University Store at University Place. Police said a store employee saw the accused, Isaac Leary, take four pairs of pants and various food items and walk out of the store without paying. Investigation led to Leary's arrest. Police said the man was working at a Woodrow Wilson construction site, and was wanted on numerous contempt of court warrants from multiple jurisdictions.

Representative Rush Holt presented war medals to several central New Jersey World War II veterans at a recent ceremony at his Hopewell home that also honored this year's student military academy nominees.

Among those honored with a bronze star was John C. Norman of Princeton, who served in the U.S. Army from November of 1940 through September of 1945. Mr. Norman was among the first infantrymen sent over to Europe at the start of the war.

Having entered Europe in Northern Ireland, Mr. Norman served in England, Italy, and Northern Africa. As an infantryman on the front lines, one of his jobs was to lay barbed wire and mines. For his military service and injuries suffered to his shoulder from artillery shrapnel, he received a purple heart.

Sheila Singer

Each year, Rep. Holt and his Academy Selection Committee, composed of both active and retired military personnel from central New Jersey, select student nominees to enter our nation's military academies, including the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, and the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in Great Neck, N.Y.

This year's student academy nominees include Sheila Singer of Princeton and John Michel of Cranbury, both of whom have been nominated for entrance into the U.S. Naval Academy.

Princeton Recreation's Summer Day Camp will run Monday through Friday, 9 to 3, at Community Park South. On rainy days, camp will meet in the Community Park School. Pre-camp and post-camp care are also available. The fee for the camp is $340 for Princeton residents, $680 for non-residents, and includes the registration cost and a camp tee-shirt for each child.

Forms are available in the Recreation Department Office. For information, call 921-9480.

YMCA to Sponsor Red Cross Blood Drive

The Princeton Family YMCA will sponsor a blood drive for the American Red Cross on Friday, June 21, from 2 to 7, at the Y on Paul Robeson Place.

"Today there are no extra supplies, and that leaves the community unprepared for emergencies," said Stanley Roberts, CEO of the Penn-Jersey Red Cross Region, which serves more than 100 New Jersey and southeastern Pennsylvania hospitals.

Just a few months ago, the area had a five-day supply for all blood types. That has dropped to a less than one-day supply of type O red blood cells, the type needed in emergencies, and of type A negative and B negative red blood cells.

Most people who are at least 17 years of age and who weigh 110 pounds or more are eligible to give blood (17-year-olds require a parental consent form). Federal regulations require donors to wait 56 days between donations.

To register for the blood drive call 497-9622 or stop by the YMCA membership office.

Special June Events Planned by Watershed

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association will offer "Exploring the night: Firefly Parade" for families and adults on Thursday, June 27 from 8:30 to 10 p.m.

During the walk, participants will enjoy the annual light show provided by several species of fireflies, and learn about firefly life-styles.

The cost of the program is $6 for Watershed members and $9 for non-members. Pre-registration is required by June 27, and enrollment is limited.

The Watershed is also offering "Explore Your Watershed: Hike the Cedar Ridge Trail" for adults and children seven years and older on Saturday, June 29 from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

The Cedar Ridge Trail is part of an 80-acre preserve along the Sourland Mountains in Hopewell Township. Acquired by the Delaware and Raritan Greenway in 1991, the preserve is part of the Stony Brook Greenway.

The trail offers a view of several different habitats, including a meadow, mixed evergreen, and oak-hickory forests, and is bordered by the Stony Brook.

Pre-registration is required by June 29, and enrollment is limited. This program is co-sponsored by the Washington Crossing Audubon Society, and is free.

For more information about both events and to register, call 737-7592.

GRANDPARENTS DAY: The Princeton Friends School recently celebrated its first-ever Grandparents Day, at which more than 70 grandparents and grandfriends visited the school to attend classes and join in various school activities with their student hosts. Above, grandparents and grandfriends are welcomed by school head Jane Fremon.

TOWNSHIP EARNS SAFETY AWARD: Princeton Township was recently awarded the annual safety and loss control award by the Statewide Insurance Fund. Through successful leadership and effective management, the Township has been able to reduce the number of work-related injuries by 24.6 percent and overall injury costs by 52.7 percent. This is the first time any municipality has received the award for two consecutive years. Pictured with the awards are, from left, presenter Jay Lawton of the Statewide Insurance Fund, Township Personnel Assistant Mildred Fiumenero, and Township Mayor Phyllis Marchand.

Music Together to Host Child Classes in Summer

Music Together, a national program of music and movement for early childhood, will host its Summer 2002 semester beginning Monday, July 1.

On Tuesday, June 25 at 9:30, 10:30, and 11:45, demonstration classes will be held at the Center for Music and Young Children (CMYC), located at 66 Witherspoon Street, to provide a preview of the summer course.

The summer program will offer classes for newborn through four-year old children and their parents or caregivers on weekdays and Saturday mornings at CMYC.

Music Together classes meet for 45 minutes each week for six weeks during the summer and 10 weeks in the fall, winter, and spring. Twelve children and their parents or caregivers experience new songs, chants, movement activities, and instrumental jam sessions.

A teacher skilled in music and early childhood education leads the classes, helps adults understand how to participate, and conveys the importance of relaxing and enjoying the activities with their children.

The national Music Together program was developed in Princeton by co-authors Kenneth K. Guilmartin and Lili M. Levinowitz. "We believe that every child is musical and that each child needs a stimulating, supportive music environment to enjoy the wonderful human capacity for music-making," said Mr. Guilmartin, who also serves as the director of the Center for Music and Young Children and who has composed numerous scores for off-Broadway productions.

To sign up for the demonstration classes, to register for the summer classes, or to receive more information, call 924-7801, ext. 334.

Resident of Township Faults Police On Their Response to Vandalized Car

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We are writing to make our fellow citizens aware of an incident of criminal mischief that recently befell us. This should be of interest because, we are coming to learn, it is not entirely uncommon. Furthermore, we want to share our surprise and disappointment at the Township Police response to it. A week ago, Saturday night at around 9:45 pm, two large explosions occurred a couple minutes apart. Each sounded as if it occurred immediately outside of our house, and when we opened the door, explosive powder could be easily smelled. After the second, we called the Township police (actually 9-1-1). From our bedroom window, we can see if any cars come down our street, which is a small cul-de-sac. The police did not come, but fortunately nothing further occurred.

In the morning, we discovered that the windshield of our car, which was within 7 feet of the house, had been massively damaged (though, due to engineering advances in windshield design, not shattered). The smell of powder was still detectable. Again, we called the police, and this time an officer came. He observed the scene and filled out a report. We mentioned multiple times that we smelled explosives, but he insisted that the damage was too extensive for fireworks and might be the effect of a brick. After we mentioned several times that we were certain explosives were involved, he noted powder residue on the windshield. After filling out a report, the office told us that he was too busy to investigate, but that we were welcome to do so. In answer to my questions, he said that there had been no other similar reports and that someone had indeed come by the previous night and not found anything.

Immediately thereafter, a neighbor walked by. It turns out that he also called the police, and his wife smelled the powder Saturday night from several hundred feet away. The worker who replaced my windshield mentioned that he had done a similar job on the connecting street a few months ago. He also noted that the magnitude of damage would require a quarter stick of dynamite. Friends of ours had exactly this happen to them in Montgomery, and their incident was investigated by the local police and by the State Police Bomb Squad.

By this time, we were more upset than when the incident occurred, and so we called a captain in the Township Police force. We were told that they are too busy to investigate criminal mischief cases. The captain did note that several people on the connecting street also called and that an officer did visit that street and talk to people. In fact, he admitted that the explosions were heard at the Township Police Station. They did not visit us, even though I said in my call that the explosions were right outside my house. Both I and another neighbor were watching from our windows, but nobody ever came.

Frankly, we find this both frightening and appalling. The explosions left our two pre-school age children crying in their beds, and these are kids who are not at all scared of thunder and lightning storms. Fortunately, the physical damage was only to our property. The greater damage is that we have lost our faith in the ability (or willingness) of our police to protect us. What if the perpetrator(s) come back and next time ignite the dynamite through our front window? Actually, we just found out that this happened to our next-door neighbors in the second explosion; fortunately, they were away, as the debris would have seriously injured or killed anyone in their living room at the time. Next time, can we call 9-1-1 and count on the police to come help us? Sadly, we have our doubts. We don't believe in vigilante law, but an incident like this certainly brings it to mind. Should we simply allow somebody to come and damage our property? How do we ensure the safety of our family? These questions are certainly giving us plenty of cause to ponder these days.

Problems Noted in Letter about TPH Are Reaffirmed by NAMI Mercer Head

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We are writing in response to Dr. Arthur Krosnick's letter to Town Topics (June 5).

NAMI MERCER (the Mercer County Chapter of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill) is a member of the Advocacy Coalition for Trenton Psychiatric Hospital (TPH). NAMI membership includes individuals with mental illness, among them former and current patients at TPH. Collectively, we have spent untold hours, months and years receiving treatment in, visiting or monitoring the hospital through the hospital's Family Partnership Program.

We wrote to the Commissioner of Human Services and the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations about TPH in early May. The letter sent to Town Topics by Jean Ross, a member of NAMI and resident of Princeton, was the same letter that we sent to local newspapers in all of the counties served by the hospital. Our letters, informed by our extensive personal experiences and observations, were prompted by the accreditation of the hospital by JCAHO during a time when we were so appalled by the accelerating deterioration of the conditions and treatment at the hospital that we felt compelled to reach outside the usual lines of communication for help.

We are very pleased to learn of the medical care provided by Dr. Krosnick and his clinic, which we understand is off the grounds of the hospital. We do not doubt his good experiences with individual staff members. We share such experiences and even make annual awards to people who work in the challenging circumstances of the hospital. We cannot agree, however, with Dr. Krosnick's surmises about our motives or with his general representation, so at variance with our extensive, long-term experience, about the overall treatment of TPH patients.

We stand on our conclusions and with both the patients and committed staff of the hospital in demanding that the NJ Division of Mental Health Services and the State of New Jersey the care and treatment that the patients in this hospital need and deserve.

Health Commission Member Explains Need for County Health Department

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In response to Irfan Khawaja's letter [May 29, 2002] "Is Princeton Establishing Measures to Deal with Potential Terrorism?" the Princeton Regional Health Commission and the Princeton Township and Borough Offices of Emergency Management have been holding planning meetings for almost two years, well before 9/11/01. One result from these meetings has been the establishment of an emergency telephone system for Princeton Township. In addition, the Medical Center at Princeton has recently held an emergency drill.

However, more effective regional planning requires the existence of a county level health department that Mercer County now lacks. Such a county health department would coordinate emergency planning among all of Mercer County's 13 municipalities.

New Jersey will soon receive $27 million in federal funds to strengthen its public health infrastructure and hospital preparedness to respond to acts of terrorism. These funds will go to New Jersey counties which have county level oversight, such as county health departments. The Trenton and Hamilton Township Health Departments might receive some funding which would be inadequate to meet Mercer County needs.

The confusion during the fall anthrax attacks in Hamilton Township demonstrated the consequences of Mercer County's deficiency. There was no one in charge to decide whether or not the anthrax-exposed postal workers should receive medical treatment; the state health commissioner deferred to local authorities. (New York State would not have this problem since its counties with populations over 250,000 are required to have county health departments directed by public health physicians.) Mercer County has a population of over 350,000.

A county health department would coordinate health related emergency planning, conduct surveillance in hospitals and clinics, coordinate hazard control and decontamination activities, conduct epidemiologic investigations, and provide up-to-date information for medical personnel, emergency management officials, and the general public.

The Mercer County administration has resisted the formation of a county health department but that stance can have serious consequences in today's world. While municipalities can do some basic planning for public health emergency events, such events could be regional in nature and the county level would be the most effective official unit for protective and response activities.

We urge Mercer County residents to contact the Mercer County executive, Robert Prunetti, and ask him to reconsider his opposition to a Mercer County health department. His telephone number is available on the Mercer County web site at http://www.mercercounty.org/_private/-calling1.htm.

For more specific information on local emergency planning, please contact your local Emergency Management Officials. The Princeton Borough and Township Emergency Management websites are: http://www.princetonboro.org/oem.htm and http://www.princetontwp.org/emergencymain.html.

Unwanted Changes May Result From Garage Currently Planned in Downtown

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As we discussed the Borough's plan for a large garage, somebody mentioned that Charles Schwab — the other Schwab, the famous stock broker — was considering the addition of another floor to their building on Nassau Street. The additional parking being offered in the future garage made this an attractive option for them. That reminded me of a comment I heard some time ago at Borough Hall. That comment related to the fact that there are only rather low buildings all along Nassau Street from Witherspoon to Washington Road. It was implied that all these building could be built up to full permissible height (see the impressive Fleet Bank building at the corner of Witherspoon and Nassau Street) once the parking problem was resolved.

Now, I wonder whether the 525-car-garage planned for our center of town will be just that starting point of a building boom along Nassau Street. Must I visualize that all the buildings, from Witherspoon to Washington Road, will soon be at least five floors tall? Since they are commercial buildings, profitability, not beauty, will be of the essence. Knowing modern commercial architecture, should we expect all to be of dark red brick, rather square, with a uniform grid of square windows — a continuous row of those — square 5-floor blocks side by side?

Will this fulfill somebody's wish that Princeton's downtown be "vibrant"?

To find out, I asked around among some Princetonians who always like to go into town for shopping, lunches, or dinners. What did I hear?

"I will not get into that big garage. I just don't feel at ease in garages. I'd rather go to the shopping center." "Why should I get into this garage, possibly having to cycle up 3 to 5 floors, past all the early parkers, just to make a small purchase or to have a quick lunch? I'd rather drive out to a place with more comfortable parking." And more comments like that.

This would indicate that the future garage will bring a change in the type of visitors coming into town. Some will not come any longer - other types of visitors will have to come anyway or are of the type of visitor who don't mind parking in garages.

What will the consequences be for the different businesses we have in the downtown area now? What sort of businesses will survive and prosper in the future?

What will all that do to our town we are so proud of? "Will the beauty of our town get lost — far beyond the building of the garage?"

"Will taxes go down? Is Manhattan a fiscal success — or the center of Philadelphia?"

I suggest that we investigate and discuss the consequences of what we are planning to do before we move too far ahead. The Romans said already, "Whatever you do, do it wisely and consider the consequences."

All Should Work Constructively With Developer of the Downtown

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I write to congratulate the Mayor and Council on selecting Bob Powell as 'our' developer. He is an honorable, long-time citizen of the town who will do his best to see that the development of our downtown is done responsibly.

At the Princeton Future Workshop on June 1st, Councilman Joseph O'Neill suggested to all of us that we consider how our decisions might be viewed 50 years from now. He asked: "Can't this become a civic square?"

At the moment, the plans which have been put forward would seem to refute this very good idea.

We all need to work constructively with Bob and his team and with his clients, our elected representatives on Council, to ensure that this land is retained by the public and put to the best civic use we can imagine.

One more rant, while I'm on the subject. There are way too few handicapped parking spaces near the NY Sports Club. Lots of people go to the Sports Club for rehab. It isn't enough to provide just a few handicapped spots nearby, especially now that library patrons fill up all the regular spaces around there.

Is it too late to restore some of the parking? Please, can we have a return to sanity here?

Green Street Residents Are Barred From Parking in Arts Council's Lot

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Arts Council has posted its entire parking lot for employees only, forcing its own patrons to park on Green Street. Often there is no room on the street for Green Street residents, several of whom do not have private parking. If you therefore park in the Arts Council lot, they put unremovable stickers on the car windows threatening to tow the car. This is true even when the lot is otherwise empty, at night and on holidays.

Resident of Township Faults Police On Their Response to Vandalized Car

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The members of Not In Our Town are appalled that anti-Semitic hate literature has been distributed by the National Alliance, a white supremacist group from West Virginia, in parts of Princeton. Not In Our Town is an interfaith, interracial organization whose primary mission is to oppose racism and all forms of discrimination in Princeton. Following in the footsteps of our namesake in Boseman, Montana, where citizens came together to oppose outside groups trying to provoke racial hatred, we urge our fellow citizens of Princeton to join together in opposing racism. Together we can make it clear to these outsiders that such actions are acceptable.

Parking Spaces Are at a Premium At the Princeton Shopping Center

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Why is the Princeton Shopping Center demolishing scarce parking spaces just when they're sorely needed?

Since the library moved to the Shopping Center, parking spaces there have been at a premium, especially in the area behind the library's temporary premises and also near McCaffrey's. I couldn't believe it when I saw precious spaces disappearing - to be replaced by what? Trees or bushes?

CHESSforum

How does a player go about controlling the game? If a person dictates the pace of a game and his/her opponents are constantly responding to threats, then that player is said to have the initiative. Utilizing the initiative is often a very difficult task; it is the advantage that is most difficult to turn into a material one.

Solution at bottom
White to mate in two.

Initiative can be controlled throughout any part of the match: opening, middlegame, or even endgame. In the opening, it is likely that one or both players will make a dubious move leading to inactive piece play or an exposed king. It is at this moment that the opposing player must jump on the opportunity to exploit those weaknesses.

The Closed Sicilian, as well as a variety of other openings, is designed to exploit the kingside fianchetto (placing the king's bishop on g7 with pawns on f7, g6, and h7). In this week's game, Bellemo chooses to play for interior kingside expansion with 6.f4, but playing 6.Be3 followed by Qd2 and h4-h5 is also a plausible plan. Either way, white forces black to defend by blowing open his kingside pawn structure, using his own pawns as battering rams.

As you can see in the game, Lippi never gets a chance to gain an initiative on the queenside. Therefore, he is answering Bellemo's threats the entire game, until he is forcefully checkmated. Bellemo rips open the kingside, sacrifices his rook, and forces resignation. A great game!

TAKEN TO HELENE FULD: Rescue workers transport 73-year-old Paula Sheffler to a medical helicopter, where she was flown to Capital Health System-Helene Fuld Medical Center after sustaining serious injuries in a two-car accident Tuesday morning. (Photo by Steve Allen)

Two People Injured In Head-On Collision

Two people were injured Tuesday morning as the result of a head-on collision on Route 206 just north of Herrontown Road. The accident closed Route 206 between Ewing Street and Cherry Valley Road for two hours.

Police said a 1997 Lincoln Continental, driven by 73-year-old Paula Sheffler of Morganville, swerved into the southbound lane of Route 206 and collided head on with a 1994 Ford CF 7000 box truck at 10:24 a.m. The truck was driven by 49-year-old Ralph Brensinger.

Princeton Fire and Rescue extricated Sheffler by cutting off the top of the car. She was flown by Northstar Helicopter to Capital Health System-Helene Fuld Medical Center in Trenton with injuries to her left hip, spleen and knee cap, and was admitted to the Intensive Care Unit. She was later charged with failure to keep right. Brensinger was transported to the Princeton Medical Center, where he was treated and released.

Artist Jim Webb's Unique Lamps Are Offered for Sale at Studio 233

Ceramic artist Jim Webb's stunning lamps are far more than functional lamps to light the room. They are works of art!

His collection can now be seen at Studio 233, located at 233 North Union Street in Lambertville. Available for purchase, these extraordinary floor and table lamps, made of cast stone or clay, are one-of-a-kind and signed and numbered by Mr. Webb.

IT'S NEW To Us

He had formerly been offering his lamps wholesale to a gallery in California and to several others around the country, but recently he and his wife and business partner, Barbara, decided to open a retail business at the studio, where Mr. Webb creates his lamps.

"We had the space, and two of the rooms were being under-utilized," explains Mrs. Webb. "Also, people like to make a connection between the work and the artist. We already have repeat customers, including a lot of people from Princeton. Many have come back for several lamps."

"One of the interesting things about having the store is the opportunity to have new things coming along," adds Mr. Webb. "When people come in, they like to see different things. So it keeps me busy."

A native of Washington, D.C., Mr. Webb has always been interested in art. As an undergraduate at Princeton University, majoring in art history, he studied ceramics with renowned ceramic artist Toshiko Takaesu.

Love of Ceramics

After graduation, he traveled extensively, primarily in the Middle East and Afghanistan. He developed a keen interest in Islamic art and architecture, which has continued to influence on his work.

Returning to the U.S., Mr. Webb earned a master's degree in economics at Columbia University. While at Columbia, he rediscovered his love of ceramics, and Toshiko Takaesu encouraged him to move to Lambertville and join the now defunct Clay Co-op. In 1978, he opened his own studio, which is now Studio 233.

The building housing the studio, an 1830's structure, which Mr. Webb renovated, includes 18-inch thick stone walls, hand-plastered interiors, and wide-planked pine floors. On the south-facing facade of the building is one of the few passive-solar Trombe walls ever built in the state of New Jersey.

"It's a passive solar collective system," explains Mr. Webb, who constructed it. "In the process of renovating the building, we discovered there was no insulation. It was stone, and very cold! The solar system is fantastic, incredibly efficient.

"I started out working in tiles and customized tiles," he recalls. "Then I did a few lamps, custom work, about 15 years ago. A customer took one of them to California, and then to a shop to get a shade. The shop owner, Sue Johnson, who is also a lamp shade-maker, liked the lamp, and asked me for more. She has become a wholesale buyer for us."

Mr. Webb's interest in lighting stemmed from a desire to marry the sculptural and functional potential of clay and cast stone, explains Mrs. Webb.

Unique Statement

"Each piece gave him the opportunity to create a unique statement with the use of glazes and patinas. In the case of the hand-built slab lamps (shown in the photo), each side is embossed with a decorative relief that renders each lamp like no other."

"I got interested in the sculptural form," he adds. "And getting my hands into the clay is part of the creative process that is so interesting. I also really enjoy the combination of the glazes and the addition of light.

"I like working with materials — clay, stone, and paper for the shades — and then see something take shape. I don't always know what the completed object will look like. It can be a surprise. The creative challenge is deciding which direction to go and following through until it is finished. There are so many competing ideas.

"It takes many hours," he observes. "It is very labor intensive. From beginning to end, it can take several weeks."

The challenge begins in his workshop, with the pounding of the clay. Separate slabs of clay are cut, then joined together into a distinctive shape. All go through an initial bisque firing, and some are fired three times.

Mrs. Webb also works in the studio, helping her husband with the prep work and now constructing the shades.

"A shade can take several days to make, and Jim has been a very good teacher," she says. "We use handmade paper that is commercially available from Thailand and Nepal, and also Egyptian papyrus. We also work with a paper-maker in Maine, Gigi Sarsfield, who makes both the paper and the shades."

While the lamps are similar in appearance, they are indeed one-of-a-kind, with slight differentiations in decorative relief, and they can also be customized to color and shades. In an age of mass production, no two are truly alike, and the lamps have both a classic and contemporary feel.

ARTIST'S LIGHT: "It's nice to have control over how to display your work. With the shop, I can do that now," says ceramic artist Jim Webb. He and his wife Barbara are shown with two of the unique lamps he has crafted, and which are available in his new retail shop, Studio 233.

Pieces of Art

"They are seen in the most traditional homes and settings, including many in Princeton," points out Mrs. Webb. "They really transcend both contemporary and traditional. Jim's work is art. Individually crafted pieces of art."

The lamps range from $360 to $600, and a smaller selection of tiles is $70 to $80.

The Webbs are pleased that his work will be shown at the wholesale show, The Buyer's Market of American Crafts in Philadelphia July 19 through 21.

In addition, their studio will be the site of a joint show featuring the collaborative and individual work of Mr. Webb and Annelies van Dommelen, who is known for her lovely paste-paper boxes, monotype prints, and handpainted lamp shades. The show runs June 22 through July 14.

"I love talking to the people as they come in," says Mrs. Webb. "We're a little off the beaten path, but people are really finding us. We look forward to being very busy, to having new work, and being comfortable with what we have. Lambertville is a wonderful place for us."

Studio 233 is open Wednesday through Saturday 11 to 6, Sunday 1 to 5. 397-0818. Website: 233-studio.com

Montgomery Center Plans Summer Art Camp Program

From June 24 through August 16, Montgomery Center for the Arts will be offering its Summer Art Camp for children ages 5 through 12 in outdoor classrooms adjacent to Green Acres and the Millstone River.

The Art Camp is designed to be an enjoyable experience during which children can develop skills in the visual and performing arts and in which artistic exploration and self-expression are encouraged. It will host both a five-day per week morning session from 9 to 12 and a selection of afternoon classes to 1 to 3.

"We pride ourselves on the quality of instruction as well as the levels of experience children receive in the arts," stated Program Director Nancy Coffee. "We also offer a very flexible schedule that can meet the needs of most families."

Registration is available in one-week increments.

As part of its summer camp, Montgomery Center for the Arts will host a two-week theater and drama program from July 15 through July 26. The program, featuring Sally Chrisman, will be held in the morning from 9:30 until 12 for children in grades one through three and in the afternoon from 1 to 3 for children in grades four through six.

Two sessions of a new four-week pottery and sculpture class will also be offered.

The first session will host ages 6 through 8 on Mondays and Wednesdays from June 24 through July 17 and ages 9 through 12 on Tuesdays and Thursdays from June 25 through July 18. The second session will hold classes for ages 6 to 8 on Mondays and Wednesdays from July 22 through August 14 as well as ages 9 to 12 on Tuesdays and Thursdays from July 23 through August 15.

Enrollment is limited and reserved on a first-come, first-served basis. To register or to receive more information, call 921-3272.

TAWA Summer Show Opens This Saturday

The first of The Trenton Artists' Workshop Association's two summer exhibitions will open Saturday at Ellarslie, the Trenton City Museum, in Cadwalader Park in Trenton.

Five artists, representing a variety of styles and media, have been chosen for the first exhibition. Each artist will have an entire room in which to exhibit a body of work.

Gail Bracegirdle will exhibit her colorful representational watercolors. Diana Kurz will show oil paintings, and Diane Levell will display historical photographic images. Diane Pastore's unique still lifes in oil and the mixed-media artworks and book art of Sarah Stengle complete the exhibit.

This year's show is juried by Donna Gustafson, Director of Exhibitions, Hunterdon Museum of Art, and former Senior Curator of the American Federation of the Arts.

The exhibitions are free and open to the public, and will run through July 28.

SweeTree Gallery To Host Group Show

The SweeTree Gallery, located at 286 Alexander Street, will host a group show featuring artwork by New Jersey-born twins Sara and Nicole Funke and sculptures by their grandfather, Robert F. Drury, from Friday, June 21 through Saturday, July 27.

A reception at which patrons can meet the artists is scheduled for Friday, June 28 from 5 to 8.

Entitled "Funke Fantasies," the show will feature the twins' enchantment with fantasy and their interpretations of their dreams and imagination on canvas. Nicole works in oils with soft edges, layering and building the paint to gain elements of light, shadow, and depth, while Sara uses acrylics with harder contours in a spontaneous fashion.

Born in East Windsor in September 1979, the twins graduated from Hightstown High School in 1998. Both studied at Moore College of Art and Design in Philadelphia.

Their grandfather, self-taught sculptor Robert F. Drury, was born in 1941. He recently retired from DuPont after a 27-year career as a research and design scientist, and he plans on increasing the time he spends on woodworking.

The SweeTree Gallery, which specializes in yet-to-be discovered local artists and artists from the Caribbean, will feature the group show on Fridays and Saturdays from 1 to 6 and by appointment. For more information, call 924-8665.

Princeton Artist's Work Set for State Museum

The New Jersey State Museum is hosting an exhibit that features the paintings of several local artists, including Ann Ridings of Princeton, through July 15.

A reception at which patrons can meet the artists is scheduled for Sunday, June 23 from 1 to 3 in the Cafe.

After earning a B.S. in Social Services from Syracuse University, Ms. Ridings attended the Yard School of Art in Montclair. Later, she was accepted into the Artists Residency Program at the Vermont Studio Center in Johnson, Vt.

Ms. Ridings has had many exhibitions, including shows at the Montclair Art Museum, Buck Hill Falls Art Association, and the Morpeth Gallery in Hopewell. She has also taught Chinese brush painting at the Montclair Art Museum.

Other artists featured in the exhibition include Stephen Polin of Newtown, Pa., Heather Pool of Trenton, and Fay Sciarra.

The New Jersey State Museum is located at 205 West State Street in Trenton.

The show runs from Saturday through July 14. An opening reception will be held Saturday from 5 to 9.

Studio 233 is located at 233 North Union Street. Hours are Wednesday through Saturday 11 to 6, Sunday 1 to 5. 397-0818.

Morpeth Gallery Schedules Show, Talk

The work of Lambertville artist Barbara Osterman and Hopewell artist Pat Martin will be on display at the Morpeth Gallery in Hopewell Saturday through July 20. In her watercolors, Barbara Osterman explores ways to express space as it is perceived in the modern era of space exploration. Her paintings are a result of personal experiences that are then abstracted in the process of painting.

WOODWORKING BY GRANDFATHER: This sculpture by Robert F. Drury, entitled "Bird's Eye," will be among the works featured at a group exhibition at the SweeTree Gallery, located at 286 Alexander Street, from June 21 through July 27.

Pat Martin makes an emotional statement in large-scale oil paintings. Her work expresses states of being and is a reflection of her own sensibilities and thoughts in the moment.

An Artists' Reception will be held Saturday from 4 to 6, and a Gallery Talk is scheduled for Saturday, June 29 from 3 to 4.

COLORFUL GLASS WORK: This glass bowl by Peter Layton, which features bright hues of blue, yellow, and orange, is among the works featured at an exhibition at the CG Gallery, located at 10 Chambers Street, that will run throughout the month of June.

Boychoir School Appoints Edwards As New President

Donald B. Edwards

The Board of Trustees of The American Boychoir School has announced that Donald B. Edwards has been appointed to succeed John Ellis as president on July 1. Mr. Edwards has served as the school's Vice President for Institutional Advancement since January 1999 and was a member of the Board of Trustees from 1994 to 1998.

Mr. Ellis, who became president in 1990, informed the board in January of his plans to leave the post at the end of the school year in order to pursue new opportunities in the non-profit field.

Board chairman Dr. Chester W. Douglass said Mr. Ellis had built a significant endowment, made major additions to the campus, and recruited an outstanding senior staff. "We are delighted that one of his strongest appointments, Don Edwards, has agreed to assume the presidency," he said.

Said Mr. Edwards, "I am eager to lead the superb team John [Ellis] assembled and to build on what is already a strong foundation." He praised the leadership of the school's new Music Director, Vincent Metallo, and its Head of School, Bythema Bagley.

As vice president, Mr. Edwards was responsible for annual giving, alumni relations, public relations, and marketing. He directed the Campaign for American Boychoir Values endowment effort and increased annual giving by more than 40 percent over the last three years.

From 1976 to 1997, Mr. Edwards served as Vice President of Rutgers University, where he was responsible for public relations, alumni programs, government relations, and development. Since leaving Rutgers, he has served as President of the Princeton Ballet Society. He is currently an officer of ArtPride New Jersey, a statewide advocacy group.

From 1994 to 1996, Mr. Edwards was a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges and was Chairman of its Council on University Relations and Development. He was appointed to New Jersey's Chapter II Education Advisory Committee in 1982.

While an undergraduate at Yale, Mr. Edwards sang in the school's Apollo Glee Club, conducted by Boychoir alumnus John Stewart; the Yale Glee Club; and the Alley Cats, an a cappella group. He later chaired the Music Committee at Trinity Church in Princeton.

Mr. Edwards, a Cranbury resident, currently sings with the Choir of Christ Church, New Brunswick and performed with the choir at Carnegie Hall earlier this month.

Founded in 1937, The American Boychoir offers a program of education, musicianship, and fellowship for boys in grades five through eight. The American Boychoir tours widely, performing more than 150 times a year.

Summer Theater To Open June 20

Princeton Summer Theater 2002 will open its 29th season with a performance of Christopher Durang's Baby with the Bathwater on Thursday, June 20, at Hamilton Murray Theater on the Princeton University campus.

Combining satire with absurd humor, Baby with the Bathwater follows the life of Daisy, a child whose parents are too polite to discover its true gender when it is born. Directed by Evren Odcikin, the production will feature Joe Cermatori as Daisy and Hollis Witherspoon and Charlie Hewson as the parents.

The show will run from June 20-23 and July 4-7. Performances will be Thursday through Saturday at 8 p.m., with Sunday matinees at 2.

"Waiting for Godot" Comes To Sculpture Grounds

Grounds for Sculpture will present Samuel Beckett's classic Waiting for Godot on Friday, June 21 and Sunday, June 23.

First performed in Paris in 1953, the play incorporates many of Beckett's themes and ideas from other works, centering on "the suffering of being." Most of the play deals with the characters Estragon's and Vladimir's wait for something to relieve their boredom — Godot can be understood as one of the many things in life that people wait for.

Viewed at fundamentally existentialist in its take on life, Waiting for Godot is part of the Theater of the Absurd.

Produced by Like 40 Productions, a new local theater organization, the play will be presented Friday at 8 p.m. in the Domestic Arts Building and on Sunday at 2 in the outdoor amphitheater (weather permitting).

Tickets are $10 for members of Grounds for Sculpture and $20 for non-members. Admission to the museums and park is included. Seating is first-come, first-served, and tickets may be also be purchased at the door on the day of performance.

Special guest artist Marco Santoro, baritone, will sing a selection of Neapolitan songs. A renowned musician who has performed extensively in Italy and France, Mr. Santoro will be traveling from Pettoranello, Italy to perform with the orchestra in honor of the 10th anniversary celebration.

The Princeton/Pettoranello Foundation was officially formed in 1991 to establish a sister city relationship between Princeton Township and Pettoranello di Molise, Italy. In reality, the bond between many Italian-American residents of the Princeton area and their ancestral home has existed for more than a century.

The foundation's mission is to provide "charitable, scientific, educational, and other ways to perpetuate the heritage and the common bond and relationship between the two towns."

MOVIE REVIEW

"Late Marriage"

100 minutes, Not Rated
Directed by Dover Kosashvili
Featuring Lior Loui Ashkenazi, Ronit Elkabetz and Lili Kosashvili
In Georgian and Hebrew with subtitles

Marriage brokers who try to find a suitable bride for 31-year-old Tel Aviv philosophy student Zaza (Lior Loui Ashkenazi) in the black comedy Lote Morrioge have a tough task on their hands. Zaza has rejected over a hundred women.

Zaza's ultra-conservative, domineering parents, Yasha (Moni Moshonov) and Lili (Lili Kosashvili, the mother of the film's director, in a triumphant first acting role), believe it's way past time that Zaza settles down with a young, virginal woman and start producing grandchildren.

Zaza has no interest in any of the prospective wives introduced to him because he's passionately in love with an "extremely inappropriate" woman named Judith (Ronit Elkabetz). Judith is a Moroccan divorcee with a 6-year-old daughter. She's three years older than Zaza and even a little taller than he.

When Zaza's parents find out about Judith, they commandeer three carloads of relatives and stake out Judith's apartment building. When Zaza is spotted going into the building, Yasha and Lili and several aunts and uncles storm into Judith's apartment and confront the lovers. Judith is told she won't be tolerated in Zaza's life. Zaza is ordered to come home with his family. He obeys his parents — but he doesn't stay away from Judith for long.

Lote Marriage won nine Israelt Academy Awards. It's a bittersweet examination of a family's efforts to hold on to traditional values no matter what the cost.

Freshman Standout Chris Hoeland Played Like a Senior This Season

Princeton High tennis coach David Black told his squad last year that an incoming freshman was going to challenge them for one of the singles positions during the 2002 season. He was referring to Chris Hoeland, a 15-year-old frosh who made his mark early in the 2002 preseason. He not only challenged for one of the singles positions, he became a stalwart at third singles. Hoeland's critical win over West Windsor-Plainsboro North helped PHS clinch the Mercer County Tournament championship, and his 6-4, 7-5 victory against Ocean Township vaulted the team into the NJSIAA Group III finals.

Outstanding Freshmen Athletes
Third in a Series

Hoeland may have been a freshman, but he played like a senior. He was a major force for the Tigers during their 29-win season this year.

"I've known Chris since he was 11-years-old," said Black, who taught the Township teen at John Witherspoon Middle School and had seen him play on several occasions. "He's a clutch performer, and seems to take his game to another level during big matches. He doesn't seem to be affected by pressure."

"If he [Hoeland] is struggling in a match, he doesn't get emotional on the court. In some matches he didn't even break a sweat. He doesn't get caught up with the pressure. It's nice to see that in a freshman."

"I just play my game," said Hoeland. "I visualize myself playing when I'm older. When I'm 18 my game will be the best, but not right now."

"We accomplished a lot," he said of the team's championship run this season. "I did too, but there are still lots of things I have to work on in order to do even better. My teammates were great. We all supported each other."

Hoeland said his biggest win during the 2002 campaign was against West Windsor-Plainsboro South, a team that had beaten the Tigers for nine straight years during the regular season. His win at third singles gave PHS a 2-0 lead that they would not relinquish. Princeton held on for a 3-2 victory.

"That was pretty exciting," he commented. "We hadn't beaten them in awhile."

Hoeland talked about playing in the six team Tournament of Champions after defeating Ocean Township in the Group III championship.

"I don't think many people expected us to beat Ocean Township," he said. "I knew it [TOC] was big and important. I didn't really think about it that much, I just went out and played. I was a little nervous, but not enough to affect my game."

TENNIS PHENOM: Princeton High freshman Chris Hoeland helped lead the team to the Group III championship this season. He garnered several critical wins, and finished the season with a sparkling 25-3 record. (Photo by Steve Allen)

The Tigers were beaten 3-2 by Livingston in the first round of the TOC. Hoeland was defeated 4-6, 6-4, 4-6. It was the turning point of the match.

"It could have gone either way," he commented. "They [Livingston] just had the big wins. They played a little bit better."

"He doesn't get emotional on the court ... he [doesn't] even break a sweat. He doesn't get caught up with the pressure. It's nice to see that in a freshman."

Hoeland toggled between sports when he was younger before settling on tennis. He played his first tennis tournament when he was 11-years-old, but it wasn't always his first area of interest.

"I started playing tournaments a couple of years ago," he said. "That's when I became serious about tennis. I played basketball for a long time. When I started getting serious about tennis, I broke my ankle."

Hoeland broke his ankle playing football.

"It took me about a year to recover fully," he explained. "I came back and played baseball a little, and then I went back to tennis."

Hoeland has seen action at nearly every position in little league baseball, with the exception of playing first base and catcher. He is also a soccer player, and a pianist.

"I have two recitals per year," he said. "I get nervous. I play almost all classical music, but next year I'm going to play more jazz. I like jazzy things, stuff with an interesting beat."

Hoeland will continue to fine tune his game with tennis lessons this summer. He also plans to participate in numerous tennis tournaments, and will be assistant coach for Princeton Recreation's summer boys' basketball league.

Steve Everette Is Named Head Football Coach at PHS

Princeton High named Steve Everette as its new head football coach last week, replacing Ray Strelecki, who left the program to pursue other interests. Everette was assistant football coach at Cinnaminson High School from 1993-94, and Oak Crest High School in Cape May County from 1995-99. He was head coach at Clayton High School, home of the Clippers, from 1999 until last year.

Everette takes over a Princeton program that has won just two games in the past three years.

"The first thing to do is have fun," Everette said of rebuilding the Tigers' program. "The kids can't feel like it's a chore when it's time to come to camp. Every place I've gone it's been a rebuilding situation."

Comeback Victory

Everette finished with one win at Clayton, which was a dramatic 28-14 fourth quarter comeback victory last year against a veteran Wilmington Friends coach who was seeking his 200th career triumph. Prior to that game, Clayton High had lost 16 consecutive games.

Everette will be forced to start from scratch again when he begins his first season as the Tigers' head coach.

"Hopefully we can increase the strength and team speed," he commented. "We need to establish a passion for the game. Part of that is us being a family. I have to establish relationships. I have to make connections with people in the program, both the kids and their parents."

Developing those relationships, according to Everette, also means earning the players' trust.

"If I'm telling the kids they're going to get bigger and faster, then I'd better make sure they get bigger and faster. This is my trial period."

Everette met with his players for the first time on June 12.

"It went really well," he commented. "We had 35 kids sign up. There were more who hadn't signed up yet because they had to get home and study for finals."

Former Coach

Everette credited former Tiger head coach Ray Strelecki with developing a core of players who are serious about turning the program around. Everette's goal now is to get more students involved in the program, which will eventually eliminate the need for some players to play offense and defense.

"One thing I saw when I was watching the film is that some of the Tigers looked tired toward the end of the game," Everette said. "Hopefully we can have people just go one way."

Increasing the numbers, according to Everette, starts with success in the weight room. That creates excitement among the players, who will then spread news of that success to others. It's a chain reaction that Everette hopes will create more interest in the program.

"We need to reach out and grab some kids who never thought of playing football," he said.

Everette's passion for the game of football is evident by his animated style of coaching.

"I'm very animated," he explained. "A kid will get an interception, and I'll be running down the sideline with him. Football is a very emotional game. You can't coach it unemotionally."

Everette participated in drills with some of the players on Thursday while wearing a suit and tie.

"With the entertainment I provide all during the game, " he said, "it's worth coming to watch."

Princeton High will begin practice on August 16. Everette will make his regular season coaching debut at Princeton High on September 14 against Allentown.

When you think of Babe Ruth you think of home runs - 714 of them in fact, a record that stood for almost 40 years. But what do you know about the Babe's first homer? Ruth was pitching for the Boston Red Sox when he hit it - on May 6, 1915 off a pitcher named Jack Warhop, who just happened to play for... the New York Yankees. Incidentally, it happened at the Polo Grounds in New York because there was no Yankee Stadium yet. After all, that was "the house that Ruth built."

Only two men in basketball history have been voted into the Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass., twice - once as a player and once as a coach. Any idea who they are? The first was John Wooden, who was enshrined as a player in 1961 and as a coach in 1973. The other was Lenny Wilkins, who went in as a player in 1989 and as a coach in 1998.

The world's first sports section is believed to have been published in the late 1870's as part of the "National Police Gazette," a weekly tabloid that was distributed primarily to barber shops. The paper's owner, Richard K. Fox, a native of Belfast, Ireland with a knack for promotion, was the first publisher to recognize that his readers were interested in entertainment as well as news. Thanks to the paper's sports coverage as well as its sponsorship of such "sports events" as oyster opening, haircutting and one-legged dancing, Fox almost tripled his circulation in less than four years.

Becker, Smith Named Acad. All-Americans

Princeton women's lacrosse players Rachael Becker and Kim Smith earned 2002 Academic All-America honors from the IWLCA recently. Becker, a junior defender, and Smith, a senior attacker, are both psychology majors.

Along with their academic success, both excelled on the lacrosse field, with Becker leading a defense that allowed only 130 goals en route to the NCAA championship. Becker finished the year with 52 ground balls, 46 forced turnovers, and 26 draw controls while logging a team-high 1099 minutes.

Smith finished the season with 29 goals and eight assists for 37 total points. She picked up ten ground balls and ended her Princeton career in fourth place on the all-time goals list with 142. She was Princeton's lone representative on the 2001 Academic All-America squad.

Area Karate Students Excel in June 10 Tourney

Students training at the various Tiger Schulmann's Karate schools kicked and punched their way to victory at the Challenge of Champions tournament on Sunday, June 9, at the Fairleigh Dickinson University Rothman Center in Hackensack.

Winning competitors from the Tiger Schulmann Karate Center in Princeton include Joe Billedoux, who took first place in the 10 and under category, and Anubhai Mehta, who placed third in the 35 and up category for senior men.

The Challenge of Champions features three categories of competition, including submission grappling, forms, and free fighting. It offers students who are passionate about self defense the opportunity to showcase street wise self defense training based on skill, not a point system as in other martial arts tournaments. Students competing in the Challenge of Champions vary in age between four and 71-years-old. Participants reside mostly in the New York Metropolitan area, Pennsylvania, and Florida.

The Challenge of Champions takes place twice a year and features the hybrid martial arts style of Tiger Schulmann's Karate.

The event was introduced in 1996 and has grown consistently along with the popularity of martial arts training. The next Challenge of Champions event is scheduled for December.

Princeton Post 218 Pounds Mitchell Davis 17-6 Last Thursday

Princeton Post 218 earned its first American Legion baseball victory of the season last Thursday with a 17-6 pounding of Mitchell Davis Post 182 in a game that was called after five innings due to the ten-run rule.

Princeton starter Eddie Von der Schmidt pitched to only four batters after being roughed up in the top of the first inning. Von der Schmidt was tagged for two runs on an RBI single by Post 182 shortstop Corey Thomas. Post 218 reliever Max Suguira settled down after surrendering an RBI double to Almondo Sewell and a sacrifice fly to Ivan Guzman. Princeton, however, found itself down 4-0 heading into the bottom of the first.

Post 218 rallied for five runs and took the lead for good in the bottom of the first. Robby Begin reached first base on an error, and scored on a shot to the gap by Stuart Abram that was misjudged by Guzman. Dan O'Brien followed with a solid double to left field that scored Abram to bring Princeton to within two runs (4-2), and O'Brien scored on an error by Thomas that left Jon Butts on first base. Butts tied the game at 4-4 after scoring on a long double by Aprigliano, who later came home to score the team's fifth run.

Princeton added a run in the second inning and led 6-4 after Abram was walked, stole second, advanced to third on an error, and scored on a groundout. Post 182 narrowed the lead to 6-5 after Thomas tripled and scored on an error by Ian Zack with two outs in the top of the third.

Post 218 scored 11 runs in the bottom of the fourth, which was highlighted by a Butts two-run single and a two-run double by Aprigliano. Mitchell Davis committed four errors in the inning, and Princeton finished the inning with just three earned runs out of 11 scored.

Post 218 designated hitter and third baseman Matt Manley collected all three of his RBI's in the fourth inning. Aprigliano was 3-for-4 with three RBI's and two runs scored, Abram was 2-for-2 with one RBI and three runs scored, and O'Brien was 3-for-4 with two RBI's and three runs scored.

Max Suguira allowed six hits in 3⅔ innings, while brother Alex faced one batter in the fourth inning. Will Young closed out the game for Princeton.

Manley was 3-for-3 with two RBI's in Princeton's 9-3 loss to Bordentown Post 26 on June 11. Post 218 jumped in front 1-0 after ½ inning, but fell behind 4-1 after Bordentown scored three times in the first and once in the second inning.

Princeton scored twice in the third inning to cut the lead to 4-3 before Post 26 stretched its lead to 6-3 after scoring twice in the bottom of the inning. Bordentown added three runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Butts took the loss for Post 218. He surrendered four runs and three hits in 2⅔ innings before handing the ball to Alex Suguira. He allowed five runs and six hits in 3⅓ innings.

The Princeton versus West-Windsor Plainsboro game, scheduled for last Friday, was rained out. No make-up date has been announced.

Yankees Win 'A' Minor Little League Title

The Princeton Little League 'A' Minor Yankees held off a furious rally by the Phillies on Monday night to capture the league championship with a 5-3 victory.

The Yankees led 3-0 until the Phillies posted three runs in the fifth inning to tie the score. The Yanks scored twice in the top of the sixth inning to take a 5-3 lead. The Phils then loaded the bases with two outs in the bottom of the inning on a bunt single, but the Yankees' Jordan Metro completed the game with a strikeout.

"It was a very well played game," said Yankees coach David Etherton. "There were very few errors. When it was 3-3 in the sixth, it looked like we were down, but we scrapped some runs together to overcome.

"We used our second strongest pitcher yesterday just to get to the championship. I knew I was going to have to go with someone who didn't have as much experience. Jordan has just been pitching this year. He pitched about 95 pitches in the championship game. That's getting up there for a 10-year-old. He's a strong kid, strong willed, and he knows how to pitch."

Stevie Etherton led the Yankees with a single, double, triple, three RBI's, and he scored once. Will Sword pitched five innings for the Phillies, while teammate Will Mooney closed out the game.

The Café Wins 47-43 In Adult Hoops Opener

The Princeton Recreation Department's Summer Adult Basketball League kicked off its 2002 season on Monday with three hotly contested games.

In the first game of the night, The Café clipped defending champion Backes & Hill (formerly Dana Communications) 47-43. Asmar Fortney scored 16 points in the win, while teammate and Rider University guard Robert Taylor added 12. Backes & Hill was led by College of New Jersey guard Derrick Grant's 14 points.

Former Rider University guard Mike Scott scored 21 points to lead Tiger's Tale to a 47-44 victory over Princeton PBA in the second game. Antonio Stapleton added 13 points in the victory. Princeton PBA was led by Shawn Hammond, who scored ten points.

Princeton PBA had a chance to tie the game with no time left after Deon Hames was fouled while shooting a three pointer. After a timeout, Hames missed the first shot to end the game.

Scott Findlay scored 20 points to help George's Roasters & Ribs defeat SMB 44-37 in the nightcap. Teammate Kyle Burke scord eight points, while Keith "The Wizard" Jones led SMB with 13 points. Peter Denby and Kelly Willliams added ten points apiece for SMB.

Opening night of the Adult Summer League was originally supposed to feature four games instead of three. That quadruple-header was rescheduled for June 19, when the New York Sports Club will battle Pratico Jewelers at 6:15, Princeton Radiology will play SMB at 7:15, Tiger's Tale will play George's Roasters & Ribs at 8:10, and Capsule Communications will face ProAct at 9:05.

Hulfish North

Palmer Square to provide about 20 affordable units within the proposed complex. Continuing to maintain that the 1994 ordinance does not apply to the Paul Robeson/ Hulfish North residential complex because final approvals were already in place four years earlier, Mr. Newton has offered to give the Borough $57,500 to be used to build affordable units elsewhere in the Borough.

Over the past several years, the Borough has reached agreements with developers such as J. Robert Hillier to provide fewer than the 20 percent affordable housing stipulated in the ordinance. These agreements affect both current Hillier residential projects in the Borough— the 16 units on Moore Street and the conversion of the Princeton Nursing Home on Quarry Street to 34 apartments.

The 97 one-to-four bedroom condominium and rental apartments proposed for Hulfish North/Paul Robeson Place were part of an application for 114 residential units made by Collins Development, a former owner of Palmer Square. Seventeen dwellings, facing Hulfish Street, were constructed by Collins, but the remaining 97 have remained unbuilt.

Responding to the denial of permits, Mr. Newton said, "One option is litigation, but it is a hugely expensive option with the cost borne by us and the Borough. Negotiations often occur on courtroom steps." Mayor Reed has also spoken of the possibility that the stalemate on the affordable housing issue might lead to a litigation and to having the final decision made by a judge.

Affordable housing is not the only stumbling block to issuing permits, said Mr. Peters. Denial, he said, was also based on the fire protection plan and lighting standards. In addition, he said, the size of the project requires approval from the state Department of Community Affairs as well as from Mercer County, the Princeton Sewer Operating Committee, the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority, and other agencies.

Christopher Reeve Delivers Address at PDS Commencement

When writing to PDS alumnus Christopher Reeve '70 to invite him to speak at graduation, the class of 2002 explained how they felt that his spirit of determination was a characteristic embodied by their class. Mr. Reeve expanded on this theme and delivered a commencement address with a message of taking personal responsibility for meeting the future with integrity and selflessness by helping others. It is not about how you begin, it is about the quality of the beginning, he said. Make it count.

GRADUATES

Head of School Dr. Judith Fox and Board of Trustees Chairman Jack Hall Jr. presided over the commencement ceremony, along with Head of Upper School Carlton Tucker, on Sunday, June 9, conferring diplomas on the 88 members of the class of 2002. Nearly 1,500 people gathered under the blue and white striped tent on the school's campus. Senior Heather O'Leary sang the The Stor Spongled Banner. Seniors Thomas Bohnett and Brett Haroldson spoke on behalf of the class of 2002.

Mr. Reeve spoke at the beginning of the ceremony and offered advice to go forward and be willing to take chances and risks. To go your own way really means to find what is true inside yourself and also is generous, he said. Whatever we do in life, there's one hand reaching out. At least one hand is reaching out as far as you can go for others and in so doing by reaching out more comes back than you can possibly imagine. Don't do what's easy in life, he said. As he left the stage, he was given a standing ovation.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Reeve and his mother, Barbara Johnson, attended a theatrical tribute created in his honor by PDS Performing Arts Director Ross Hindley, and performed by students and alumni in the school's Herbert and Marguerite McAneny Theater. Under the direction of the late Herbert McAneny, his acting career began with Princeton Day School productions including Our Town, Skin of Our Teeth, Little Mary Sunshine, Watch on the Rhine, and The Boy Friend. During this time, he was also performing regularly at McCarter Theater in Princeton.

After graduating from Princeton Day School in 1970, he attended Cornell University where he majored in Music Theory and English and also spent time studying theater in England and France. In lieu of his final year at Cornell, he and classmate Robin Williams were both accepted with advanced standing at New York's Juilliard School for the Performing Arts.

Christopher Reeve was born on September 25, 1952 in New York City and moved to Princeton at the age of 4. He attended Princeton Country Day and then Princeton Day School when it opened in 1965.

At his 20th reunion in 1990, Mr. Reeve was honored with the Princeton Day School Alumni Award, established to honor alumni "whose achievements reflect the highest ideals of the school." He was recognized not only for his achievement as an actor, but as a human rights activist as well.

Over the years, Mr. Reeve has supported various charities including: Amnesty International, Save the Children, the National Resources Defense Council, the Lindbergh Foundation, the Environmental Air Force, and People for the American Way. He is a founding member and past president of the Creative Coalition, an advocacy group of artists, and has been a passionate supporter of the National Endowment for the Arts. In the years since his accident, his main focus has been the Christopher Reeve Paralysis Foundation, which seeks to improve the quality of life for disabled people. He has been tireless in his efforts to raise money for spinal cord injury research.

Mr. Reeve's brothers attended PDS: Benjamin Reeve is a member of the class of 1971; Jeffrey Johnson graduated with the class of 1979 and Kevin Johnson in 1981.

Garage

Responding to Ms. Koehn's request that Council set up a public meeting to be led by Mr. Hegedus, Councilman Roger Martindell said, "It's not right to ask people to do your political organizing. A grass roots movement should come from people who care." Mayor Reed said that if Mr. Hegedus would like to hold this meeting, he should call the clerk and reserve Borough Hall.

"This juggernaut can't be stopped no matter what Mr. Goldfarb says," said Borough resident Ron Neilsen. "The only thing this group can do is delay. He also asked what the effect on the Princeton taxpayer would be when they find a woman mugged or raped in the garage.

"A lot of women I've spoke to express this as a major reason for not wanting to use parking garages. Garages are scary," said Ms. Koehn. "I wouldn't walk through a parking garage."

"I'm concerned about where Princeton is going. I worry about whether or not we should be building a large Princeton," said Vandeventer Avenue resident Jim Firestone.

At the Tuesday night meeting, Council took several actions to make the project more viable, including approving ordinances adopting a redevelopment plan for the site of the proposed garage complex, reducing from four to two acres the amount of contiguous land needed for a planned commercial development; and entering into agreement with Nassau HKT Associates, the developer of the project, to do engineering and design services for the parking structure. The Borough would reimburse the firm up to $250,000 if for some reason it did not go forward with the redevelopment project.

The plan developed by Nassau HKT Associates provides for a 525-space garage; a park plaza; two five-story residential buildings providing 75 to 85 apartments; and retail space, . including a food market.

Last summer, Council adopted a working plan that differed in several ways from this. It called for a two-stage development; the first, on the north side of Spring Street, to include a garage, plaza, and office and retail space. A bridge would connect to the second stage, on the south side of Spring Street where there is currently a metered lot. This phase would include a retail market and additional parking spaces.

The first phase would provide 354 parking spaces and the second 40 spaces, for a total of 494. The cost of Phase one was estimated at $12.7 million. Phase two would add an additional $3.8 million. Estimated costs for the new complex have not been released.

GOING BACK - 50 YEARS AGO

Here is a look back at events in Princeton in 1952 as seen in the pages of Town Topics.

Resident and author John O'Hara has given permission for the premiere of his unnamed new play to be staged by the Princeton Community Players and the Theatre Intime before a possible New York opening.

• Contralto Marian Anderson sings before a full house at McCarter Theatre in "one of the highlights of the musical season."

• At Brophy's shoe store, 78 Nassau Street, Child Life "Mary Jane's" are $5.95 to $7.95.

• An ad for a '52 Kaiser with padded dashboard invites the reader to see the car with "world's safest front seat" at Kline & Gregory, Inc., 268 Nassau Street. Tel. 3109. Meanwhile, Shelton Motor Co., 300 Witherspoon Street, boasts that the "new mighty DeSoto Firedome 8 is here, with 160 horse power performance on regular fuel!" At Cramer Motors, Somerville Road, the "fabulous" Hudson Hornet with "Hydra-Matic Drive" is for sale, and Brook Motors on Witherspoon Street carries the new Aero Willys, "six feet wide - only five feet high." A 1946 "completely overhauled" Chrysler is for sale for $850 in the Classified section.

• A review of The African Queen at the Princeton Playhouse calls it "a whacking good adventure piece." But the Garden Theatre's Cimarron Kid is "strictly ordinary western fare, given some life by seemingly endless gun play."

• At the Food Mart, 20 Witherspoon Street, Hellman's mayonnaise is 39 cents for a pint jar, Ken-L Ration dog food is three cans for 40 cents, and veal cutlets are 99 cents per pound.

• Princeton Airport supplies air taxi service to La Guardia or Idlewild for $22.50. Kuller Travel Agency offers "reduced" air fares to Europe at $270 one way.

• Urken Supply Co., 27 Witherspoon Street, sells wire rubbish burners for $1.79 and metal grass rakes for 98 cents.

• For dining out, Griggs' Imperial Restaurant, 58 Witherspoon Street, provides special Sunday luncheons for $1 and daily dinner for $1.25. The Walker Gordon Gate House, one mile north of Penn's Neck Traffic Circle on Route 1, specializes in "delicious southern fried chicken."

• As Princeton's Man of the Week, Town Topics designates Peter Brock Putnam, 31-year-old member of Princeton University's Department of History, who has just written a book, Keep Your Head Up, Mr. Putnam!, on how he "accepted and threw back" the challenge of sudden blindness.

• OK Preferred Finance Company, Inc., on the second floor of 33 Witherspoon Street, offers loans from $20 up to $500. A $30 loan for one month costs only 75 cents.

• Gordon D. Griffin of Snowden Lane is named the Township's new attorney.

Students Will Make Beds

To effect an annual saving of $75,000, Princeton University is dispensing with the services of some 30 to 40 janitors. Starting in September, undergraduates will clean their own rooms and make their own beds.

• Chase Aircraft Co. in West Trenton seeks former aircraft workers to build cargo planes, with good wages guaranteed to "qualified men" as assemblers, sheet metal workers, riveters, wood workers, machinists and bench hands.

• The Tiger basketball team, coached by Cappy Cappon, wraps up the Eastern League title before the season is even over but loses two games in Chicago in the N.C.A.A. regional basketball tournment leading up to the championship round.

• Mila Gibbons of the Appari School of Dance gives a recital at the Present Day Club with 11 of her pupils.

• In Princeton Township, a "fine old stone residence" in a rural setting close to town, four bedrooms on 28 acres, is listed for $75,000. A new three-bedroom Cape Cod with gas heat on a large landscaped plot can be had for $22,000 (owner leaving for foreign service).

• Ground is broken for the 50-family housing development on Clay Street "excellently planned" by the six-man Borough Housing Authority.

• In this "largely Republican community" balloting is heavy in the G.O.P. presidential preference primary pitting Dwight Eisenhower against Robert A. Taft, and Harold Stassen. Eisenhower carries Princeton by a 4 to 1 margin.

—Carol R. Kagay

PLEDGES OF PEACE: For their efforts to promote peace both within and beyond the classroom, the student at Littlebrook Elementary School were recently rewarded with a presentation by Aaron Gruber of USA Yo-Yo Extravaganza, who used a yo-yo to emphasize the theme of championship. Above, Mr. Gruber interacts with Littlebrook student Victoria Morris as other students look on.

Quiet Center of Theological Inquiry Hosts Wide Range of Scholarship and Projects

"We have been a well-kept secret," said Wallace Alston, the director of the Center of Theological Inquiry (CTI) on Stockton Street. "What our institution is and what we do is not widely known. In fact, we may be better known outside of Princeton than inside it.

"We are not an educational institution with students. We are not a library," stated Dr. Alston, who previously served as the pastor of Nassau Presbyterian Church. "We are an absolutely unique institution."

According to Dr. Alston, CTI is an independent, ecumenical institution that "brings scholars of various fields together to develop new ways of thinking about God and the world so that the church will be better equipped to bear its witness."

He stated that the notion of CTI was first conceived in 1962 by James I. McCord, the former president of Princeton Theological Seminary.

"He was concerned that the church, in a general sense, was not keeping up with the social, economic, and political changes of a revolutionary century," explained Dr. Alston. "He thought that there ought to be a place where the finest minds in the Christian tradition could access resources to explore particular aspects of the Christian faith.

Explores, Clarifies

"It is based on the notion that all truth is one," he continued, "and that that truth is rooted and grounded in the one God who created the heavens and the earth."

With that foundation, CTI explores and clarifies the Christian tradition. "We are committed to the study of the Christian theology and its relation to other disciplines," said Dr. Alston.

"We hope to stimulate the church's own mind regarding what it believes," he added. "And we hope that CTI, in providing a supportive environment, can play a small part in the development of the body of Christian literature."

In 1978, CTI was officially founded by the board of trustees of the seminary, and its building, located at 50 Stockton Street, was completed in 1984.

"It was a unique act of courage on the part of the seminary to establish CTI, provide the land for our building, and make its resources available to us," said Dr. Alston.

As an independent institution, CTI has its own board and its own endowment, but, according to Dr. Alston, it "depends heavily upon the good will and support of PTS for its life and work."

That work initially focused upon the relationship between theology and science, a primary concern at the time of CTI's founding. "Since then," stated Dr. Alston, "the issues of the world have changed." In response, CTI now supports study in a variety of fields including systematic theology, biblical studies, historical theology, and ethics.

According to Dr. Alston, the pastor-theologian program attempts to answer the question, "How does the work at CTI have some influence, take root, and become a part of the thought and life of the church, and, through the church, the world in which we live?"

Through regional, ecumenical seminars, 15 pastors "continue their theological activity in ways that might enrich the whole of ministry," said Dr. Alston.

In order to implement its mission, CTI organizes its programs into four categories.

Each year, the program of residential scholarship supports 12 scholars from all over the world for work on a particular project. The members, who live in townhouses on Ross Stevenson Circle, come to CTI through application or invitation and have opportunities for both personal study and interdisciplinary discussion.

Through CTI's three-year research projects, 15 to 18 scholars meet for three days twice a year to discuss a particular topic and, ultimately, their discussion leads to the publication on a volume on that topic.

Previous projects have considered issues such as the relationship between science and theology, globalization, and eschatology, while current research projects regard the nature of scripture, theological anthropology, and the notion of the common good.

Finally, CTI sponsors one-time events or conferences on particular theological and social issues that require attention. Previous conferences have taken place in Heidelberg, Germany; Capetown, South Africa; and Bangalore, India.

Dr. Alston, 67, studied at Emory University before earning his Ph.D. from Union Theological Seminary in Virginia. He has also studied at Harvard Divinity School and the University of Zurich.

Former Pastor

For 22 years, Dr. Alston, who is married and has three grown children, served as the pastor of Nassau Presbyterian Church. His experience at the church has provided him with insight into the community of Princeton.

"As the pastor of a church," stated Dr. Alston, "you have the opportunity and privilege of seeing deeply into the heart of a community because you are entrusted with the innermost lives of its people.

"This is a beautiful community," he continued. "It has its own opportunities and problems, which are not unlike those faced by other communities."

In 1996, he made a professional shift to become the director of CTI. "It was a particular time in my life and in the life of the center at which our needs matched," said Dr. Alston. "The church was in wonderful shape with good programs, and I felt free to leave."

For Dr. Alston, CTI represents another challenging reality within Princeton. "Often, there is little communication between the self-contained institutions in Princeton and the community," acknowledged Dr. Alston. "CTI is part of the problem as well as part of the solution."

In an effort to overcome that issue, CTI hosts its public lecture series, which features lectures by prominent theological scholars.

"This is an attempt to give to the community what we have to give," said Dr. Alston. "We try to open our doors to the community as much as possible and be responsive to the needs that come to us while maintaining an environment conducive to scholarly study.

"In ways large and small," he said, "we try to address and live conscious of the situation." —David McNutt

THROUGH YOUR TODDLER'S EYES

Because toddlers are generally unable to express that they are having vision trouble, parents are encouraged to look for signs of problems. The optometric physician should be consulted if a young child's eyes appear crossed, turn outward, or do not move in unison, which are usually indicative of images that do not fall on the same point on the retina of each eye. Parents should also take note if their children squint, tilt their heads, or get too close while watching TV or looking at pictures in books. Other signs include drooping eyelids, excessive tearing, extreme sensitivity to light, blinking tightly, eyes that appear hazy, and little or no response to differences in color. Early detection can make a significant difference.

Vision that is compromised can contribute to or cause many of the problems a toddler and child may experience in attention, performance, and learning. This week's column highlights several symptoms that an alert parent or educator can identify. At MONTGOMERY EYE CARE, we provide a continuum of family eye health care services including eye health examinations. Call us at 609-279-0005 to arrange an eye exam. We are located at Montgomery Center at 1325 Rt. 206.

P.S. Today's glasses for young children feature plastic, scratch-resistant lenses, and flexible, colorful frames.

OBITUARIES

Robert R. Palmer, professor of history at Princeton and emeritus from Yale, died at home on June 11 at Pennswood Village in Newtown, Pa. He was 93.

Known professionally as R.R. Palmer, Dr. Palmer was a modern European historian specializing in 18th-century France. He was the author of eight books and translator of five. His writings have been translated into seven languages, including Persian and Chinese. His best-selling book, A History of the Modern World (1950, 9th edition, 2002, co-authored from the 2nd edition with Joel Colton of Duke University), has been widely used for half a century in both high schools and universities.

Robert R. Palmer

His two-volume Age of the Democratic Revolution: A Political History of Europe and America, 1760-1800 (1959, 1964), won the Bancroft Prize and the American Council of Learned Societies Special Prize. The book established Dr. Palmer as a pioneer in the contemporary field of comparative Atlantic history.

His other publications covered a wide range of subjects, including religion (Catholics and Unbelievers in Eighteenth-Century France, 1939), revolution (Twelve Who Ruled, 1941), and education (The Improvement of Humanity: Education and the French Revolution, 1985). Teachers and students still use Dr. Palmer's Rand McNally Atlas of World History, first published in 1957 and in print in updated editions.

Dr. Palmer's career earned him many honors, including service as president of the Society for French Historical Studies (1961) and the American Historical Association (1970). He was for many years an active member of the American Philosophical Society and the American Academy of Arts & Sciences. He held visiting professorships at the universities of California-Berkeley, Chicago, Colorado, and Michigan, and in retirement in Princeton he was a guest scholar at the Institute for Advanced Study.

He was born in Chicago. He attended Chicago's public schools, and at the urging of his teachers, competed for a city-wide Latin prize, winning a full scholarship to the University of Chicago. There he studied with Louis Gottschalk and graduated with distinction in 1931. He won another scholarship to Cornell where he studied with Carl Becker and received his Ph.D in 1934.

He was an instructor at Princeton University in 1936. Poor eyesight barred him from active service in WWII. He spent the war years in Washington, D.C, where he worked for the War Department. He was a supervisor of and contributor to a project that resulted in the postwar publication of Organization of Ground Combat Troops (1947) and Procurement and Training of Ground Combat Troops (1948).

After the war he returned to Princeton where he taught for three decades. At age 43 he was named Princeton's Dodge Professor of History (1952-1963). He was Dean of Arts & Sciences at Washington University, St. Louis from 1963 to 1966. At age 60, he accepted a professorship at Yale University from which he retired in 1977. He returned to Princeton where he was a guest scholar at the Institute for Advanced Study.

At the front of this handsome Colonial, luxuriant landscaping provides an intimate courtyard entrance - and, at the hack, it provides a delightful screened seclusion for the hroad deck and serene garden. The 2-story entry, with graceful curving staircase, introduces a floor plan of spacious rooms. The gracious living room has a fireplace and chair-rail defines the dining room; the formal areas are accented with crown molding, and softly gleaming pegged wood floors which continue throughout most of the first floor. The well-organized cheerful kitchen and hreakfast area open to the welcoming family room with stunning stone fireplace and each opens to the deck. A guest room and bath complete the first floor. Nearby, the powder room and laundry. On the second floor, the pleasant master bedroom and handsome master bath, three additional airy bedrooms and a hall bath. Well maintained, in Lawrence Township's prized Kingshrook community.

Built in 1925, this colonial has an unparalleled view of the canal in the front, and backs to protected Green Space. As you step inside this home you will immediately feel a welcoming sense of serenity in its gracious entry. On your left you will see the cozy den or study with a corner fireplace. On your right is a large living room with a second fireplace. Dining room overlooks garden and deck. And just wait till you see the kitchen/Great Room — one section has white cabinets with neat silver knobs and plenty of room to cook and hang out with your guests. The other section has cathedral ceiling, huge windows and wood burning stove. Hardwood floors unify these two areas and provide light and space rarely found in an older house. With outside access to the large deck from three rooms, this house offers interior and exterior space par excellence!! Princeton address in historic Griggstown. $549,000

HIDDEN TREASURE!! Tucked behind mature plantings, this ranch house is a real surprise. Renovated by its architect owner, it features clever free-standing walls. Some are curved, some are straight: both enable you to use the rooms in a myriad of ways. With the back of the house nearly all glass, the garden and deck mesh beautifully with the interior spaces. Open kitchen provides an environment conducive to delightful dinners with friends and family, yet there is also formally designated dining space. REAL ESTATE AND YOU
By Tod Peyton

THE ALMOST PERFECT HOUSE

Your Realtor's job is to find the perfect home, in the right location and with all of the amenities you want — and at the right price. It is the home inspector's job to find any skeletons in the closet, or more likely in the plumbing, wiring, roof, basement and beams.

The inspector won't pass or flunk a house based on what he finds, but will go over the house thoroughly to help you understand what it is you are buying. If there are any serious problems, and if they are reflected in the price, your inspector can give you a realistic idea of how much the repairs will cost. If there are surprises, you will have the opportunity to re-open negotiations with your sellers before you commit to the purchase. A good inspector will also explain how some of the basic emergency systems work, such as the main water cut off valve and the circuit breaker box, and go over the items that will need routine maintenance. If you are buying a house, we recommend that you make a professional home inspector part of your home purchase team.

For dependable individual advice on buying or selling real estate, call Tod Peyton, Realtor or any Peyton Associate at 921-1550. Please feel free to stop by my office at 343 Nassau Street in Princeton.
